They'll Watch The Finances

New members of the Finance Committee appointed by Moderator William Dalton are, from left, Roger E. Haggerty, a supervising senior accountant; Paul C. Dow, Jr., director of Avco's tactical systems and applied technology program and Donn Byrne, office manager for Barrett Warehouse. Dow and Byrne will take office as soon as the attorney general approves the town meeting action of increasing the size of the finance committee to seven members.

Cronin To Campaign As An Independent

John Cronin
John Cronin of Andover has announced his candidacy for State Representative in the 27th Essex District. At the same time he announced that he will be running as the Independent candidate for that office.

In making his announcement at a Town Hall press conference Tuesday, Cronin said:

"I will be running for State Representative in Andover as an Independent. This decision was reached after much thought and for two reasons, basically: first, because I want to make it clear that I will campaign for the office of State Representative on my own. I do not intend to ride on the coattails of any person. And that includes by brother, Congressman Paul Cronin.

Second, and most important of all, I will run as an Independent because during the past several months I have had a great many discussions with citizens throughout the Town of Andover. These have included business and professional persons, civic and political leaders, town employees, and friends. I have learned that my friends and political supporters are distributed throughout the political spectrum. Many of them are Democrats. Many are Republicans. Many are Independents."

"I do not seek to separate or polarize any of the various political or interest groups within our town. I want to work for and represent all the people of Andover. I believe that the best possible way to achieve that is to run as the Independent

Students Attain Honors

Three Andover High school students have received significant honors this past week.

Roger S. Gettel, a junior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene M. Gettel, 8 Bellevue Road, has been awarded the Cornell Society of Engineers Ingenuity in Mathematics and Science Award.

Miss Elizabeth Seifert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Seifert, 56 Porter Road, has been awarded a $1,000 National Merit Scholarship for community responsibility.

Miss Jane Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Allen, 199 Greenwood Road, has been elected Andover High School regional representative to the department of education.

The award to Gettel consists of an inscribed certificate and a one year subscription to the Cornell Engineering Quarterly. Its purpose is to recognize secondary school students who have shown exceptional capability and promise in the ingenious, creative use of science and/or mathematics.

During the past few years, the college of engineering at Cornell University, Ithaca, N.

Seifert Proposes To Retain Title

By Linda S. Corbett

Superintendent of Schools Kenneth R. Seifert Tuesday night recommended to the School Committee a number two man who would have "broad basic responsibilities for grades K through 12," recommended his title be "assistant superintendent."

He further suggested that the job be part of a total reorganization on which he will report at the May 21 meeting, and that the job not be posted until the Regan case is settled.

During ensuing discussion on the position, which the committee had charged Seifert to outline, debate on whether the words "with emphasis on basic skills" should be added to the item on curriculum coordination and development," caused Chairman Francis Griggs to comment that "No 180 degree

4 Experts Focus On AIRS

THE TOWNSMAN, MAY 9, 1974

AIRS, the Andover Individualized Reading System, is getting a thorough going-over this week, in preparation for its being used as a model for other towns around the country.

Andover's program is one of nine "exemplary programs" chosen so far, out of a possible total of 25 nationwide. It is the only one in New England.

The American Institute for Research, a California-based firm, has been in elementary classrooms, sponsored by the federal Right to Read program. They've been taking tapes and slides of the youngsters at work, to be used in a visual presentation. Booklets will also be written describing the local program.

Mrs. Terry Murphy, reading supervisor, said this week that the researchers so far have complimented the program on its flexibility. It's not just an individualized program, but it also provides for group instruction, they say.

"to determine if there's a conflict of interest.

Lane said that he didn't feel he could vote until he knew if this was a general motion or if Olesen had a specific instance in mind.

Business Manager Ed Weil added that it didn't feel it was proper to "bring up these kinds of comments before the public and press" without their being explained.

He said that Olesen had "alertly" questioned a purchase order made out to an employee, and that Weil had passed it on the next day to Town Counsel Al Daniels.

"We have found over some years," Weil said, "that certain commodities not available on the market were made on a volunteer basis by one of the employees."

Less satisfactory versions subsequently appeared on the market for $30 to $40, Weil said, but the purchases continued to be made from the employee at $10 per.

"It represents an outstanding purchase on the part of my predecessor," Weil said, "and we continue to pay only 25 per cent."

He said Daniels was working on the technicalities to make the "special" situation acceptable.

In still other action Tuesday night the School Committee launched the beginnings of a revised policy on homework in Andover public schools.

Chairman Frank Griggs said he considered homework a "necessary part of the education program" to 1) reinforce concepts learned in class at a student's own pace and 2) as a means for parents to assess where their youngsters are in a program.

He also indicated he felt homework should be started at grade one.

In answer to a question from Committeeman John Wragg about the "free time" policy at the high school, Principal Philip Wormwood said that youngsters who perform well in school are offered that alternative to the traditional study hall.

But any not in study hall have been signed out by their parents, he said, who may sign them back in at any time.

He also said that the report cards of the "free time" pupils are checked at the end of each marking period, to insure that they're continuing to do well enough to merit the privilege.

Superintendent Kenneth R. Seifert, who said he would conduct a study within the system, said he felt homework was worthwhile to teach youngsters work habits and to budget their time.

"As an educator, there's one drawback," he said. "If there's a poor structure at home, then it only reinforces a negative environment."

He said he also felt that parents and children should spend more time together and that sending things home was one vehicle to accomplish this.

candidate. I seek the support of, and I pledge that I will work for, all the people of Andover."

"Our 328 year old town may be rapidly approaching a very critical point in its history - especially in terms of its municipal relationship with the state level of government. It is vital now that Andover be represented at the State House by a person who understands municipal law and municipal problems and who will aggressively articulate and defend positions that are in the best interests of all the people of Andover."

"I believe that I can be that kind of representative. I hope the voters of Andover will agree and will vote for me for State Representative."

Cronin, an attorney specializing in administrative and municipal law, graduated from Central Catholic High School, George Washington University, in Washington, D.C., with a Bachelor's Degree in Public Affairs and special studies in economics, and graduated with honors from the National Law Center at George Washington University.

Cronin worked for two years in the United States Attorney's Office, Washington, D.C., and was on the Board of Directors of Legal Aid Society at the National Law Center.

turns are coming in this system - that I know of."

"Let's give a traditional system equal billing with a progressive, innovative education," he said, asking also for "some peaceful coexistence."

A Delay

The discussion also led Committeeman George Olesen to move that the present position of assistant superintendent for secondary schools, unfunded for 1974-75, be abolished immediately and that of assistant superintendent for elementary schools, now held by Edward Regan, be abolished as of July 1. Both motions were tabled for future action.

According to Seifert's recommended job description, the new number two man would also oversee implementation of the Chapter 766 program, direct special projects, have charge over inservice training, act as superintendent in the absence of the superintendent and perform other duties as prescribed by the superintendent.

Among the qualifications for the job, he suggested an appropriate Massachusetts State certificate and preferences for graduate study beyond a master's degree, and five years experience in administration and curriculum construction and research.

He said closing date for applications could be July 1 and for notification of an accepted applicant, August 15.

Seifert said he had considered such titles as "assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction," "deputy superintendent," "director of curriculum" and "associate superintendent," but that he recommended "assistant superintendent" because it seemed most in line with the broad responsibilities for grades K through 12, and acting in the superintendent's absence.

Basics

Committeeman John Wragg then recommended that the words "with accent on basic skills" be added onto the duty of curriculum coordination and development for grades K through 12, and that "special projects" be defined as those assigned by the superintendent and approved by the school committee.

He also sought to add that the new man be responsible for assuring the similarity of curriculum, instruction and conduct at all educational levels, and that the description provide regular contact point for the superintendent and the members of the School Committee concerning the system's performance policy, personnel and other matters.

Committeeman William Lane added that he would like to see a statement of school committee and administration goals on personnel evaluation, before the new position is listed.

"An applicant has a right to know in advance how he is going to be evaluated," he said. "This way there will be no question a year from now that a man did or did not do his job."

Olesen also asked that the words "basic skills" be inserted in the curriculum construction and research item, causing Lane to ask for a definition of "basic skills."

Lane Comments

"Some people seem to imply that I'm not concerned about basic skills," Lane said, "but I don't see how anyone in education cannot be concerned about basic skills." "I'm not sure that any of us on the committee are that far off in terms of basic skills," he added.

Griggs interpreted Olesen's request to mean that the new man "would not be wearing the hat of education innovator," or of "the so-called progressive school."

"We've had enough experimentation," Olesen added.

Frank McFarland of Wildrose Drive from the audience also said that he didn't know what Olesen meant by basic skills.

"What path are you going to lead us down?" he asked. "I'll be very disappointed if we're going to have a period of vacillation in our educational system, if we're going to change from one educational philosophy to another."

"Nobody is out to change the school system 180 degrees," Griggs said, adding that Olesen was simply saying that "there's room for all educational viewpoints." He said he himself sought a school system that would allow for individual differences and let the parents make decisions for their children.

During the election campaign, Olesen said he had made it "emphatically clear" that "we could not offer just one system." But, he said, "I personally feel that the majority of children, the average child, needs more of a teacher-directed system, not one of experimentation."

"I'm looking forward to bringing into our system a person that can fill this need," he said, "yet keep in mind the child who functions best in a self-directed system."

"Relating specifically to basic skills," Lane said, "creates a paranoia in me."

Seeks Balance

"What I want," he said, is that youngsters be skilled in basics, but also have individual instruction where the need is shown to be."

"We have a superintendent who is very innovative," Olesen went on. "He was brought into this system to bring it to where it is today. With that in mind, I see bringing in a second man for balance."

"We have an innovator," he said, "now we need a traditionalist."

Seifert, questioning Olesen's idea of experimentation, said he could point out that every such program had behind it "sound growth and development."

"You say the elementary schools need change," he said. "You owe it to us to say where it should take place and why."

"The superintendent asked me to give specific examples of experimentation," Olesen said, "but I will also give an example of very poor implementation."

"The IMS (Individualized Math System) came into the Andover School System in one lump sum and was put into all elementary schools. It was an entirely new form of self motivated teaching of math."

"The results in terms of the SAT's were disastrous. 'Now in the junior highs, we're becoming aware of serious deficiencies in math.'"

"Most school systems will bring in a pilot program for trying it on parents who are agreeable," Olesen said, "then expand it. IMS was forced upon children whose parents didn't want it, and children who could not handle it."

Despite Lane's objections that "we should have heard an accusation that is incredible" and that he thought "it deserves a response," the chairman said that a whole program will be presented on IMS the first meeting in June.

The final suggestion, before charging Seifert to redraft the job description, was to add a preference for experience in both basic skills and individualized learning systems, to the curriculum construction and instruction duties.

HONORED. Dr. James O'Shea receives plaque from Rev. J. Edison Pike, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, during Forum Sunday at the church. Dr. O'Shea was honored for his work with youth and such organizations as Turning Point.

O'Shea Honored For Youth Work

Pediatrician Dr. James O'Shea was honored "for his outstanding, loving and sacrificial service to the young people of the Greater Lawrence area" at a Christ Episcopal Church Forum Sunday celebrating the progress and accomplishments of The Turning Point Christian Coffee House.

"He has brought his vocation of healing to bear on a multitude of children," stated the citation from the Rector, Wardens, Vestry and Parishioners of Christ Church.

"He is our community advocate and leader in drug rehabilitation. He is the person whose zeal has made possible the Turning Point Coffee House. He is a teacher of the Christian Faith to youth. His many accomplishments, his large hearted concern, his abundant energy in doing good, his intimate love of individuals as well as his great leadership of large groups makes him an inspiration and a model for us all. We are fortunate to have him as a friend and fellow worker in the Lord's work in our Greater Lawrence community."

The Rev. J. Edison Pike, who presented the award to Dr. O'Shea, cited the doctor's special involvement with physically handicapped and deformed children, his pioneering leadership in area drug rehabilitation, including several terms as president of Reality, Inc., as well as his personal sponsorship of The Turning Point.

The Turning Point and its associated Christian Bookstore, directed by the lay ministry of founders William and Sandy Watson of North Andover, and the volunteers from various Andover church denominations, offer fellowship, Christian counseling and weekend entertainment to area young people, with live musical groups scheduled on Friday and Saturday nights. Bible study groups and informal fellowship are weekday features.

The Essex Street building has been bought and its maintenance is underwritten by a non-profit corporation, Christian Teepee. Christian Teepee is made up of lay members of most of the town's churches, with the encouragement of their clergy. Dr. O'Shea, in accepting the citation, expressed gratitude of the key leadership of Christ Church laity in Christian Teepee, which provides a home and practical financial base for The Turning Point's ministry.

Reading Art Group In Exhibit

Marshall Woodside Joyce, one of New England's best-known painters of the sea and ships, will demonstrate at the May 8 Reading Art Association meeting to be held at the Community Center, Sanborn St., Reading.

Mr. Joyce's demonstration will depict a lobsterman hauling traps on a grey morning. His paintings are well known for their authenticity and for the feeling and beauty of the sea in all its moods. They have won many awards and are in demand by private collectors and ex-

Shawsheen Exercises Outdoors

The Student Government of the Shawsheen School is conducting weekly outdoor opening exercises. The opening exercises consist of a moment of meditation, the raising of the flag, salute to the flag, and the singing of a patriotic song.

Student Government members Elizabeth Hart, William Hart and John Horan were in charge of the first activity and the flag raising song was played on the trumpet by Scott Wright.

At the first ceremony prizes were awarded to the following students for the Kite Contest, which was directed by Phillip Bloomstein, Unit A teacher; Best Flying - Gregg Levanti, Jimmy Sellars, Mike Lydigsen; Best Design - Calvin Hatch, Scott Round, Chris Marcella; Most Artistic - Jimmy Lacourse, Tricia Demers, Robert Charland; Smallest - Patti Mercier, Lisa Wright, Chris Leech.

Honorable Mention - Andrew Witty, Michael Donlan, Melissa Witty, Nicole Marcella, Valerie Barron, Jeffrey Demers, David

Barron, James Mulligan, Danny Gosselin, Eddie Trainor, Sharon Siudut, Roger Meuse, Terry Goldman, Larry Cheatham and Michael Borrelli.

Faculty Awards - Barbara Young and Dave Huston.

Yard Sale To Benefit Pre-School

The Free Church Co-Operative Pre-School will hold its annual Yard Sale, Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the church parking lot, 31 Elm St., Andover.

In the event of rain, the sale will be held in the lower parish hall.

Furniture, household articles, toys, books, a man's three speed bike and an upright piano will be among the "trash and treasures" offered. Garden plants, a bakery table and a McDonald's Orange bowl will also be featured.

Proceeds of the sale are used to furnish new play equipment for the nursery school.

The event is open to the public.

Craftsmanship and Comfort—they both come first.

Distinctive design combined with up-to-the-minute usefulness. That's what makes Henredon furniture so uniquely livable. Henredon builds exceptional comfort into its upholstered chairs and sofas—and gives you your choice of the choicest coverings. The same high standard of craftsmanship is found in Henredon wood furniture—like the pieces shown here from Henredon's

Four Centuries Collection. Inspired by country French originals of the 17th and 18th centuries and scaled for 20th century users, this collection handsomely combines solid ash with olive ash burl and ash veneers in furniture for bedroom, living and dining room.

Retiring At Aggie

James F. Gallant, Director of the Essex Agricultural and Technical Institute, submitted a letter requesting retirement to the Board of Trustees at their monthly meeting. The retirement will become effective during the summer of this year.

He has been on the staff at Essex for 45 years serving as science instructor, educational manager and director the past 15 years. During this time, he has had many personal achievements that resulted in significant contributions to vocational education, and brought national recognition to the institute.

A committee is planning a reception and buffet in his honor on Sunday afternoon, June 2 from 2-5 p.m. in Alumni Memorial Gymnasium. The many friends and former students of Director Gallant are invited to attend. Tickets may be obtained by contacting Frederick Murtach at the school.

Registration For YW Summer Camp Begins

Camp Y-Wood, the Greater Lawrence YWCA Day Camp for girls, announces the opening of registrations for the 1974-8 week summer season. The Camp serves girls 8-13 years of age from all the Greater Lawrence communities and is located on Captain's Pond, Salem, N.H.

Mrs. Evelyn Retelle, 64 Reservation Road, Andover, will serve as director for the 13th year and was one of the camp's founders. Her interest in conservation and animals will be communicated to all phases of the camp program. Farm animals including two horses, a pony, pig and chickens will be at the camp for the enjoyment of the campers.

Most of last year's staff will be returning to camp. Mrs. Claire Kurzban, Derry, N.H., a swim leader in the YWCA pool program, will return for her fifth year as Waterfront Director. She will be assisted by Nancy Retelle, Carolee Whitney, Ellen Wilde, all of Andover, and Louise Fredette, Lawrence. These girls are Red Cross Life-Savers and are graduates of the Y-Wood counselors-in-training program. The campers have a Red Cross Swimming lesson each day, while boating and marathon swimming are offered as special courses.

Mrs. Maureen Bierman, Methuen and Mrs. Marie Leone, Salem, N.H. will return as Nature and Campcraft Counselors. Both are working in the local schools during the winter and enjoy camping during the summer. Miss Carol Kurzban, Derry, N.H. and Marie Duidajo of Sweden will be assistants in these programs.

Andover teenagers enrolled in the camp's Counselor-In-Training program are Diane Suter, Julie Lucey and Christina Mattsson.

The camp committee voted to increase the enrollment to ninety girls, running two buses to better serve the Andover and North Andover areas as well as add more stops in Methuen, Lawrence and Salem, N.H. Because of popular demand, seven year olds will be accepted the last two periods in a special unit with their own counselors.

Registration folders can be obtained by calling the YWCA or be picked up at the Andover Library.

In Pygmalion

Dawn Lordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Lordan, 12 Kingston St., North Andover, a junior communications / drama major at Chapman College, Orange, Calif., has been cast in the role of a Bystander in Chapman College's spring production, "Pygmalion" by George Bernard Shaw.

Concert At South Friday

Friday, May 10 in South Church, the concert featuring Linda Pettit Felton, mezzo-soprano, Wanda Paik, pianist from Sudbury and Jeanne Davis Porter, will be given at 8 p.m.

The program will include: Grieg Piano Concerto in A Minor; "In Dem Schatten meiner Locken," Hugo Wolf; "O Don Fatale," from the opera Don Carlo, Giuseppe Verdi; "Vespers," Fraser-Simson; "Old Mother Hubbard," Hely-

Hutchinson and Symphonic Variations, Caesar Frank.

Mrs. Patti and Mrs. Paik will play the Grieg Concerto and Symphonic Variations on two pianos in the sanctuary.

The concert is to benefit the organ renovation fund.

The baked ham dinner which was to precede the concert will not be held, however, refreshments will be served following the concert.

Seminar

Congressman Paul J. Findley today announced he has arranged for a Seminar for Older Americans to be co-sponsored by the Greater Lawrence Vocational Technical School in West Andover, May 17, from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The Congressman said the purpose of the seminar is to familiarize the district's older Americans with the services that are available from the Federal, State and local levels of government. Congressman Findley said the Seminar for Older Americans will be a "give and take" session to allow for open discussion of the problems of the district's Senior Citizens.

According to the Congressman, several key Federal and State officials will be present to discuss information that is of particular interest to the district's Senior Citizens.

Today's older Americans are the "home" individuals of today. Citizen of today is ready to participate in the life of the community. The May 17 Seminar for Older Americans is "this out!"

Older Americans Seminar

Congressman Paul W. Cronin today announced that he has arranged for a Seminar for Older Americans to be conducted at the Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational Technical High School in West Andover on Friday, May 17, from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. The Fifth District Congressman said that the purpose of the seminar is to familiarize the district's older Americans with the many services that are available to them on the Federal, State and Local levels of Government. Congressman Cronin says the Seminar for Older Americans will be a "give and take" session to allow for open and frank discussion of the problems facing the district's Senior Citizen.

According to the Congressman several key Federal, State and Local officials will be on hand to present a wide range of topics and to discuss informally any issue that is of particular interest to the district's Senior Citizen.

Today's older American, said the Congressman, is not a "sit at home" individual. The Senior Citizen of today is dynamic and ready to participate. I am confident that the May 17th Seminar for Older Americans will bear this out!

For Those Of Us Who Are Older

The Haven Bakers are baking again. Come to The Haven, Friday, May 10, between 10 o'clock and four to purchase your goodies for the weekend. Proceeds of the sale will be applied to the cost of expanding The Haven facilities.

The next and last session of the mini-clinic for this season, will be held Monday, May 20, at Chestnut Court between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. The clinic conducts blood pressure tests, urinalysis, diet counselling and referral services. Dr. William V. Emmons will also be present to conduct a program of vision screening. The clinic is a free service sponsored by the Andover Council of Aging. Appointments are required and may be made by telephoning The Haven any weekday between 10 and 4 (475-3968).

May 25, a Saturday, is Baseball Day for The Haven and Andover's over-60 citizens. Reserved seat grandstand tickets are available now at The Haven for that day. The Red Sox will be playing the Milwaukee Brewers. A chartered bus will provide transportation into Fenway Park, leaving The Haven at 11:30 that morning. The Andover Little League will launch its 1974 season this Saturday with a full slate of major and minor league games at both the South School and Playstead diamonds.

Appropriate opening day ceremonies, including the traditional flag raising, will be staged at each location before the first pitch is thrown to signal the start of another campaign.

Refreshment stands will also be set up at both sites.

American League

American Major League play opens at 10 a.m. at the South School complex, with the Twins slated to face the Red Sox in the first of three contests.

Following the lidlifter will be a battle between the Yankees and defending league champ White Sox, a pair of rivals who have already faced one another in pre-season practice.

The "nightcap" will match the Indians against the Tigers.

Two new managers will be making their debuts in the AL, as Armand Carrighan will guide the Tigers' fortunes and Ron Lindquist is handling the White Sox.

Returning again will be Ken Jones (Indians), Dom Nicastro (Twins), Jack Johnson (Yanks) and Frank Monette (Red Sox).

There are four American Minor League games scheduled for the remaining two fields at South.

At 10 a.m. the Angels and White Sox will clash, while the Orioles and Yankees renew hostilities at the same time on the other field.

At 12 noon the Tigers face the Red Sox and the Senators trade hits with the Patriots.

National League

National Major League activities get underway at 11 a.m. at the Playstead Field behind

Seero On Team At Princeton

Dana Seero of Albany is currently participating with the 1974 Princeton University varsity lacrosse team.

The Tigers are 5-6 this season, and are ranked among the top 15 teams in the nation. They have played a rugged schedule which includes nationally ranked Washington and Lee, Cornell, Johns Hopkins, Hofstra and Brown.

Seero will be seeking his second varsity letter for the Tigers. A junior History major at Princeton, Seero is the son of Mr.

and Mrs. Edward V. Seero of 8 Fox Hill Road in Andover, and is a graduate of Phillips Academy.

Harvey

The Governor Dummer Drama Association is planning to present the three act play "Harvey," by Mary Chase, on the evenings of Friday, May 17 and Saturday, May 18, in the Academy's Phillips Building. The play, being produced and directed by Douglass J. Wilson, will be adapted and presented as Friday evening dinner theatre "in-the-round." The plot, based around an imaginary rabbit, has provided many production challenges. Particular emphasis is being placed on character development, as the set is minimal and the technical aspects few.

East Junior High.

The defending league and Town Champion Pirates will lock horns with the potentially - dangerous Mets in the opener.

Completing the NL tripleheader will be the Cardinals vs. Giants showdown at approximately 1 p.m., and the Braves vs. Cubs tussle at about 3 o'clock.

The lone managerial rookie in the National Majors is Leo Staid, who assumes the reins of the Braves.

Returning skippers are Len Driscoll (Pirates), Leo Tortora (Giants), Bill Walsh (Cubs), Dave Mosher (Mets) and John Dilorio (Cards).

The National Minor League begins '74 hostilities with a quartet of games at the Playstead.

The Phillies meet the Pirates at 9:30 a.m. The Dodgers face the Cardinals at 11:30 a.m. The Giants engage the Astros at 1:30 p.m., and the Braves battle the Redlegs in the 3:30 p.m. night-cap.

9-Year-Olds

The Andover 9-year-old League kicks off its season next Monday, May 13, with a pair of 6 p.m. games at the Sacred Heart School Field in Shawsheen Village.

The Padres and Cubs tangle in one game, while the Athletics and Twins oppose one another in the second tilt.

All-Star Teams

At the conclusion of the regular 15-game schedule and Town Championship playoffs late in June, two All-Star teams will be picked to represent the Andover American and National Leagues in the annual International Little League Tournament.

The Star squads will be made up of the 15 best ballplayers in each league. Andover will open play in the District 14 portion of the single - elimination tournament, which culminates each year in Williamsport, Pa. with the Little League World Series.

Planning For Summer Program

The Recreation/Community Schools Department is finalizing plans for its 1974 Summer Playground Program.

A new playground will be opened this summer. Along with the four playgrounds that were open last summer, full playground staff and enrichment activities will also be offered at Shawsheen. The other playgrounds include Sanborn, Ballardvale, Doherty, (moved from East Jr.), and West Elementary which is run in conjunction with the academic summer school program.

The eight week summer program begins July 1 and will end on August 23. The department will publish a Summer Program Booklet which will be mailed to all registered voter households the first week in June. Booklets may also be picked up at the Recreation/Community Schools Department, 36 Bartlet St., or at Memorial Hall Library.

May Arts Festival

During the weeks of May 13 and May 20 various local artists will be demonstrating their skills in the hall of the library from 7 until 9 p.m. The schedule for the first week is as follows:

Monday, May 13: Mrs. Pieter Burgess, weaving; Mrs. Barbara Bertelsen, dried flower plaques; Carl Bertelsen, pen and ink drawing; Michael Myers, silversmith; Mrs. Corinne Staid, watercolors.

Tuesday, May 14: Mrs. Julia Cole, collage; Mrs. Evelyn Damrell, decoupage; Mrs. Jane Herr, oil painting; Mrs. Betty Moore, pastels; Mrs. Nana Valentine, knitted doll clothes.

Thursday, May 16: Mrs. Barbara Bro, spinning; Mrs. Phyllis Consentino, ceramics; Mrs. Denise Herring, embroidery; Mrs. Joan Wilde, pottery.

Brian's Song

The film Brian's Song will be shown on Wednesday, May 15 at 3 p.m. in the Hall. This film first appeared on television on Nov. 30, 1971 and received nationwide acclaim. Taken from the book I Am Third by Gale Sayers, it is the story of the friendship of Gale Sayers and Brian Piccolo of the Chicago Bears.

Display of Carriage Lamps

Now on display in the main reading room is a selection of antique carriage lamps from the collection of Mrs. Stevens of North Andover. The lamps have various shapes depending on the type of vehicle they served and they still have the original beveled glass. An unrefinished lamp and a modern reproduction are also shown to emphasize by comparison the beauty of the refinished originals.

Children's Room News

The Children's Room has its own special event planned for May Arts Festival and all of you are the artists. The event is a Bread Dough Workshop on Thursday, May 16 at 3:30 and everyone in grades K - 6 is invited. Please bring six slices of fresh white bread and a plastic bag for each of you. We'll help you do the rest. You'll be able to go home with beautiful headbands, key chains, paperweights, pencil holders or even flowers. It's a new way of becoming a sculptor. (Cub Scout, Brownie and Camp Fire Girls leaders: your troops are welcome; please call ahead of time if you plan to come.)

Andover's baseball teams are beginning to be heard from with the high school varsity currently riding a three game win streak.

The Warrior nine began its move with a 4-1 upset of Billerica last Friday behind the hurling of David Mosher. Mosher completely dominated the ball game as he walked only two Billerica batters.

Andover started quickly on a pair of doubles by Burrows and Mosher. They added another on a hit batsman, a sacrifice and single by Mark Sweetser. Andover added another on a single by Bob Driscoll scoring Jeff Winters and its final in the seventh on Burrows' single and an error.

The Golden Warriors won their second in succession at the expense of Phillips Academy. The Warriors quickly put the prep down with an eight run first inning en route to a 13-0 victory.

The win belonged to Bob Gildea who surrendered two hits and struck out nine.

The third win came Monday as Jerry Skinder bested Tom Morin of Tewksbury on a one-hitter, 4-0. The only hit off Skinder came in the sixth and did no damage.

The Warriors have found themselves moving up in the standings as a result of some heads-up, aggressive baseball, featuring a strong defense.

Bob Burrows, Steve Danforth and Keith Verrette have sparked the outfield and Craig Traub has had a sensational glove at the hot corner.

The steady infield includes Mark Botsch and Dave Mosher at shortstop, Jeff Winters at second base, Bob Driscoll at first and Mark Sweetser behind the plate.

The surprising aspect of the Warrior club thus far has been the great pitching of Dave Mosher and Gerry Skinder, backed by relief efforts of Bob Gildea and Keith Verrette, when not playing in the outfield.

The Andover Jayvees also keep rolling along with an eight and one record, including five straight.

The pitching has been led by three no-hitters, a route-going effort by Glenn Verrette and Bob Hannon and a combination of Mike DiTroia, Dan Billings and Bob Jenkins.

Backing up the solid pitching is the hitting of Jim Mower, Peter Reilly, Verrette and Steve Corcoran.

Chamber To Honor Fenton

The Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce will highlight its Eighty-Seventh Annual Dinner Meeting with the recreation of the Ralph B. Wilkinson Good Citizenship Award.

The award named for the late Ralph B. Wilkinson, was formerly given by the Lawrence Junior Chamber of Commerce, to an individual in the Greater Lawrence community who best typifies the spirit of community participation and involvement of the late Mr. Wilkinson, who died at the age of 52 while President of the Essex Savings Bank. The award was instituted in 1954, the year following his death, and continued until 1967 when the Lawrence Junior Chamber became inactive. A permanent plaque depicting each year's recipient hangs in City Hall.

Chamber President George B. Stern, in re-creating the award, named Past President William E. Banton as Selection Committee Chairman. The Selection Committee has selected Judge John E. Fenton, Jr., as this year's recipient. Judge Fenton, whose father, Judge John E. Fenton, Sr., won the award in 1964, was chosen in the opinion of the committee, because of his unending dedication to the community through the avenues of his many civic activities and involvements.

Fenton, who is to be sworn in as Associate Justice of the State Land Court on May 28 at Merrimack College, is involved in a myriad of civic, charitable and fraternal organizations and holds leadership positions in many of them.

The Chamber meeting will also feature the formal change over of leadership from the 1973-74 President and Officers to the 1974-75 President and Officers. Retiring Officers and Directors will also be honored at this event, to be held at the Christian Formation Center in Andover. The evening will begin with a reception at 6:30, dinner at 7:30 and the award ceremonies at 8:45.

Jaycees To Meet

The Andover Jaycees will hold its regular monthly meeting Tuesday, May 14, at the K. of C. home on Osgood street at 7:30 p.m.

On the agenda will be the annual election of officers and discussion of plans for the annual Sidewalk Bazaar June 21 and 22.

Any young man is welcome to attend these meetings.

On Building Friendship

FRIENDSHIP spans the globe in the American Field Service program as evidenced by the school year family in Andover of Lisa Catanzaro, left of Andover and Martha Mansur of Brazil.

By Helen M. Eccles

What's it really like to have an AFS sister from abroad living with you?

"One of the best experiences I ever have had," said Lisa Catanzaro, leaning her elbows on the high school cafeteria table. "But we're really not like sisters; we're best friends."

"Their way of living is so different from our way of living. Just in small things that make a big difference. I found that out when time after time, about things that I just take for granted, she would say. 'Oh, I never realized it was like that!' It makes you think, maybe for the first time, about the way we do things."

Within moments, Brazilian Martha Mansur threaded her way through tables of friends, who greet her with a friendly "Hey, Coffee Bean," to join Lisa.

What's it like to be an AFS sister from Brazil with the Catanzaro family? We got the same story; "The Catanzaros are mother and father to me here, but Lisa is not like my sister. It is living with a best friend."

This kind of friendship and learning between young people of different cultures is what the American Field Service is all about. It takes planning and money to make these experiences happen, and Andover's adult and student AFS members are planning their last big moneyraiser of the year for this weekend.

An AFS Garage Sale Saturday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Sagaser Garage, 56 Chestnut Street will raise AFS Scholarship funds. The AFS Club at the High School will be on hand to sell refreshments, and a special notepaper that is another fundraising project, says

Joseph Catanzaro and their daughter Lisa have done a very special job as host family to the peppy Brazilian student. Lisa tells us that her parents became interested in being a host family after talking to the Norman Viehmanns, who hosted Swedish Elena, Andover's AFS student of last year. "It's word of mouth that does it," says Lisa. "I know there are loads of families in Andover that would make wonderful host families, and get so much out of it, as we surely did, but they just haven't heard enough about it." Families interested in becoming host families in the next few years may contact Mrs. Jan Sagaser, incoming AFS president of the Andover Chapter.

Meantime, AFS is looking for bringers and buyers for Saturday's AFS Garage Sale, to finance these coming and goings across the ocean.

Lisa and Martha plan a trip to Brazil for Lisa a year from this summer. Money will be a problem, but the dark-haired vivacious Brazilian girl and the tan and slender blonde American girl are convinced that friendship can conquer this obstacle.

SOUTH PACIFIC CAST MEMBERS rehearsing on the stage of George Washington Hall at Phillips Academy for performances to be given May 15th, 16th, 17th and 18th. L. to r: Zareen Mirza, as Liat; George Redman, as Lt. Cable, Peter Kapetan as Emile de Becque, and Martha Frederick as Bloody Mary.

To Present South Pacific

Bloody Mary, Mangoes, Bali Ha'I, bananas and Honey Bun - all part of the 1949 Rodgers and Hammerstein musical comedy South Pacific, which is coming alive on Phillips Academy's George Washington Hall stage on May 15, 16, 17 and 18. The romance between Navy nurse Ensign Nellie Forbush and debonair French planter Emile de Becque is set against a background of the magical island of Bali Ha'I and a rather informal and high-spirited. World War II Navy base somewhere in the vast Pacific.

Based on James Michener's Pulitzer Prize novel Tales of the South Pacific, the show has been used as a prototype for much recent TV fare: "McHales Navy", "Mash", "The wackiest Ship in the Army", in which the real business of fighting the enemy seems of little importance! The same high comedy and broad farce are present in unforgettable Luther Billis and Stewpot, pseudo-serious commanding officer Capt. George Brackett, and coarse but lovable Bloody Mary herself.

To parallel the international romance of Nellie and Emile, Lt. Cable USMC falls in love with the beautiful Liat, daughter of Bloody Mary. Emile and Nellie are reconciled when de Becque returns from a dangerous mission, but Liat is left alone when Cable is killed on the same mission. Meanwhile, Luther Billis, an island entrepreneur and lowly Seabee, with aspirations to become another Admiral Nimitz, single-handedly sets the U.S. back by $600,000!

Capturing the romance as well as the tragedy of war, South Pacific typifies an important style of American musical theatre, and will amuse, sadden, and charm audiences with favorite old memories like "Some Enchanted Evening", "Younger than Springtime", and "Bali Ha'I", and with blockbusters such as "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Outa My Hair", "Honey Bun, and "Wonderful Guy".

Students from surrounding areas who appear in the cast are: David Briggs, Tommy Edmonds, Pat Marsco, Wendy Matthews, Joe Nicolosi, Martha Pernokas, Amy Price, and George Redman as Lt. Cable.

Tickets may be bought in advance from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays in Graves Hall, which is the Music Department Building behind the Office of Physical Plant at the junction of School and Main Streets in Andover.

Performances will be given on Wednesday, May 15, at 7:30 and Thursday, May 16 at 8, with unreserved seats for these performances. Reserved seats are available for the Friday performance at 8. Tickets for the Saturday, May 18 performance at 8:30 will be available only at the door, and cannot be sold in advance because of Parents' Weekend.

For further information, call The Academy. Miss Thiras will be happy to help you.

MVACLD To Hear About Allergies

According to Pediatrician James O'Shea, "Food pollutants and pollens have a significant effect on behavior." Dr. O'Shea, who specializes in Pediatrics and Pediatric allergies in the Greater Lawrence area, believes there has been a significant increase in child behavior problems paralleling the increased use of additives in the food industry. Some of these additives he has shown to bring on behavior changes, from extreme hyperactivity to actual drowsiness.

Dr. O'Shea will be the featured speaker at the next regular meeting of the Merrimack Valley Association for Children with Learning Disabilities at 8 p.m. on May 13 at the Ballard Vale United Church, Clark Road at Hall Ave., Andover. Subject: Learning Disabilities, Hyperactivity and Allergies.

As the doctor's patients know he is a very innovative man who doesn't accept failure. He has followed the latest research into allergies, particularly as they relate to learning disabled children and hyperactive children. He has done original research. Through this program he has been able to take many children off of drugs such as ritalin. Allergy treatment which he trains parents to administer, can be used to replace the drugs in some instances, and to make it possible for the person to eat the "forbidden" food.

Following the talk, Association President, Thomas Kelly, Jr. will invite questions from the audience. All meetings of non-profit MVACLD are open to the public and free of charge. There will be coffee and refreshments and an opportunity to talk with other parents. Association officers will be on hand to assist individuals in getting help with their problems.

U.S. traffic deaths are the lowest among the major nations in the world - 4.7 fatalities for each 100 million vehicles miles in 1971. Sweden registered 4.73; the United Kingdom, 6.3; Canada, 6.7; Japan, 13.28; France, 16.15 and Belgium, 20.11.

Earthworms Are Beneficial

By Wayne Hanley

The small boy who explained that he cut an earthworm in two because it looked lonely and he wanted it to have a friend was on the right track.

One can indeed create friends from a single earthworm by severing it in the middle. Although earthworms have a head and tail and a well-organized group of internal organs, they also have remarkable regenerative powers. Thus, unless some other catastrophe intercedes, the tail of an earthworm can regenerate a head and go merrily on its way - if merrily is a proper description of earthworms life.

The thought occurred to us as we were turning soil for our annual gardening plan, designed to thwart hucksters in the green grocery department. It never turns out well for us.

The gardening does help our local crop of earthworms, however. As a matter of fact, earthworms seemed almost nonexistent in the garden plot until two years ago when we worked a few hundred pounds of cow litter into the soil. This year the earthworm crop is better than ever. Each turn of the spade produced at least one and sometimes several buxom worms.

A few of these earthworms were 10 to 11 inches long, about as long as United States natives can grow. In Australia there are earthworms that grow seven feet long (some authorities claim, 11 feet) and an inch in diameter. Such earthworms compare favorably with the dimensions of a section of garden hose. The Australian aborigines never bothered to fish with the worms. They ate the worm, instead.

The earthworm explosion in the garden plot probably can be attributed to two things: an enormous food subsidy, plus the addition of a large organic mass that keeps the soil wetter. The cow litter provided both.

The great Charles Darwin, who lumped the lot of us with lemurs and monkeys, learned so much about earthworms in relation to man that modern works still refer to his discoveries. Through various experiments, Darwin proved the earthworms in a one-acre plot in seven years can create a new layer of topsoil two inches deep. The worms eat organic and mineral substances underground and migrate to the surface almost nightly in summer and fertilize it with their castings.

Earthworms never will become intelligensia, and probably could not care less. But they do have some "intelligence." Not only their heads but also their entire bodies are sensitive to sunlight. They come to the surface only at night. And, it's a good thing, too. For earthworms need moisture on the skin at all times. Basking in the sun would be fatal. But a night trip through dew-wet grass is OK.

An earthworm can get too much water, however. That is why one sometimes sees them at the surface during spring or summer rains. If their underground channels become filled with water, the worms are in danger of drowning. Thus, we never have a "rain of earthworms" but rains that bring earthworms hustling to the surface.

Andoverites Return To The Soil

By Linda S. Corbett

Some 29 Andover residents, collectively known as the Andover Garden Project, took to their furrows this week in a new war against the inflated cost of groceries.

Working within the confines of roped off plots on the Deerjump Reservation in West Andover, the localites began sowing their respective seeds and anticipating the fresh, homegrown vegetables they'll put on their tables in a few weeks.

But, according to one of the organizers, Mrs. Rachel Garcia of Foster's Pond Road, they're also enjoying the residual satisfactions of putting idle land to use, rather than letting it just sit or be developed, and great camaraderie.

All 29 "members" with as many family and friends, turned up at the project, just off River Road near the Merrimack Sunday, to watch their plots being staked off. At an earlier organizational meeting, they had specified the sizes they wanted, and the plots range from 15 by 18 feet, to 100 by 100.

The plowing and harrowing were done last week, and the members divided up that bill, plus the cost of the stakes, according to the size of their plots, paying from 66 cents to $24 each. Other than that, there are no charges. The use of the land has been donated by the Conservation Commission, which owns it.

The community garden idea was first conceived by Marion and Everett Gendler of Haggett's Pond Road, and Mrs. Garcia. The Gendlers, who have a large enough garden at home, won't be planting at Deerjump.

Mrs. Garcia, who recently did a land use study for the League of Women Voters, has a small garden at home, but has also chosen a plot at Deerjump to plant things that don't have to be tended every day, but will be good later on for canning and freezing, such as carrots, leeks, corn, tomatoes, and herbs.

"Everyone is doing his own thing," she said this week, adding that some of the members are total novices, while others have had gardens, or even farms, for many years.

But it really doesn't make any difference, she said, and PREPARING the good earth for productive crops at Deer Jump Reservation is Mrs. Rachel Garcia, who aided in organizing the gardening project for Andover residents. Assisting is Brent Garcia.

everyone is exchanging ideas, no matter what their experience.

It's all a very constructive way of putting some conservation land to use, Mrs. Garcia went on, adding that they hope the garden will become sort of a community gathering place. There's lots of room for children to run, she said, and to picnic when the weather gets nicer.

She said they also hope to get started on the project earlier next year, to plow up more land, and to get more townspeople interested. Since this year's deadline for signing up has passed, she said, many other would-be gardeners have called.

The main rule for participation, she said, is that the produce for the gardens be for personal use only, not sold commercially.

In no way, she said, will the Deerjump gardeners compete with the small farm stands in the area.

Family Fun Night Scheduled

The Greater Lawrence YWCA day camp will hold a Family Fun Night at the YWCA building May 11 to earn money for the camp scholarship fund as well as hold a reunion of campers and staff. The fun will begin with a family swim in the YW pool with lifeguards on duty from the camp waterfront staff. Mrs. Calire Kurzban, waterfront director will be assisted by Misses Nancy Retelle, Ellen Wilde and Carolee Whitney of Andover.

A baked bean and hamburger plate supper will be served in the gym by the Camp Committee and CITs. The teenagers are also baking home-made desserts for the supper.

Other camp staff members will be on hand to lead volleyball games, show camp slides and answer questions about the coming camp season.

Y-Wood camp committee members are Mona Manzi, chairman, Nancy Jukins, North Andover; Evelyn Retelle, Jean Bottomley, Wendy Moseley and Priscilla Seewald, Andover.

All former or prospective Y-Wood campers, friends, and family may make reservations by calling the YWCA desk.

Seat Belt Legislation Is Controversial

Editor's Note: The question of mandatory seat belt legislation is perhaps one of the most controversial issues in the area of traffic safety.

The Automobile Club of Merrimack Valley offers the following summary of "pro and con" views presented on this matter by members of a Symposium of Safety Belts at AAA's 1973 Annual Meeting in Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada.

For Mandatory Law

Fletcher N. Platt, manager, Traffic Safety Programs, Automotive Safety Center, Ford Motor Co.

By insuring "almost universal" wearing of seat belts immediately, Platt said that mandatory seat belt laws reduce traffic deaths by 10 per cent or more. He noted, first, that traffic laws are generally obeyed by most people most of the time even when they are not strictly enforced. Also, he said a precedent for the legality of such a law has been set by the courts in upholding the constitutionality of motorcycle helmet legislation, with the exception of one state.

Further, he declared that arguments that this legislation is an infringement on personal rights is "not completely valid." He said that it is not true that those who do not use belts harm no one but themselves, since a driver who isn't belted in position when an accident occurs is unable to control his car, which can then collide with other vehicles, injuring their occupants. In a severe collision, he said an unbelted occupant may become a missile causing serious injury to other occupants of the same car. Finally, he said auto casualties that result when the victim is not belted in create problems for society, such as pushing up the cost of car and medical insurance, increasing police, ambulance and hospital costs for taxpayers, and, if the victim is a family breadwinner, possibly adding to public welfare rolls.

Against Mandatory Laws

John J. Herd, president, Keystone Automobile Club, Philadelphia, Pa.

While agreeing that seat belts contribute to driver safety, Herd said his club opposed their compulsory use, declaring that the club was against the intrusion of persons "who appear to believe only they are qualified to judge what is good for the rest of us." He said that seat belts do not uniformly benefit all drivers, since age, driving patterns, hours when cars are driven, etc., are factors that influence their degree of protection.

Further, he stated that a mandatory seat belt law would mandatory safety belt law has operated with "minimal enforcement effort," achieved through the apprehension of drivers for other traffic law violations.

On the question of practical problems associated with safety belt use laws, he noted that:

- Substitution of extra long belts in new cars for the use of oversized persons would be permissible "if the new belts, as installed, meet all applicable Federal safety standards."

- If "certain classes of persons have special medical problems that would prevent their using a safety belt, a State legislature could exempt them" from the law, and that persons of less than a certain height could also be exempted, as well as those with certain occupations if a legitimate need for such an exemption could be established.

Dr. Dunn concluded his remarks by pointing out that states wishing to consider safety belt use legislation may use for their guidance a model law drafted by NHTSA that leaves the resolution of technical questions of implementation to the administering state agencies.

Against Mandatory Law

Floyd L. Link, vice-president for Public Relations and Safety, Motor Club of Iowa.

Link's argument in opposition to a mandatory seat belt law centered on two themes: First, he felt it was unfair to make the failure to wear seat belts a "criminal offense," especially in light of the fact that they are not convenient to use. On this point, he cited a survey of AAA members in Iowa that indicated that while only 30 per cent of the members in that state always "buckle up" when driving, almost two-thirds said they felt the belts were an effective traffic safety device and that more than one half of those not using seat belts said they would wear them if they were more convenient to use.

Second, Link said that beyond safety standards for vehicles and street and highway construction, and laws for the safe operation of cars, the matter of traffic safety rests with an individual's "ability and desire to operate a vehicle prudently and safely."

He noted that since the passage of the Federal Highway Safety Act of 1966, a number of safety standards were set up and Federal funds were allocated "to help states and local communities" implement them. He then cited another survey in which with only five per cent of 5,000 AAA Iowa members said they were familiar with any specific state or local program resulting from the Act that they believed had been effective in reducing traffic accidents. Thus, he said, new Federal incentive moneys to states to pass mandatory seat belt laws would prove a "waste of time and money."

The U.S. city population generates over 136 million tons of refuse per year. The heat energy contained in this refuse corresponds to the heat content released by burning 5417 million tons of coal or 228 million barrels of oil.

be unenforceable - and that "unenforceable law is a bad law." Such a law, he declared, would create a "large body of law-breakers, who are otherwise sound, law-abiding citizens." Current seat belt equipment, he said, is inconvenient, uncomfortable, and difficult to use when there is multiple occupancy of the car.

Finally, it was his view that Americans have always demonstrated the ability to exercise good judgment, and that they "will resist anything that implies policing of personal affairs, including the right to accept purely personal risks."

For Mandatory Law

Dr. LeRoy W. Dunn, chief, Driver Education and Licensing Division, National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Noting that millions of vehicles with safety belts will still be driven until at least the mid-80s, Dr. Dunn estimated that enactment of a mandatory seat belt law in all 50 states, if fully utilized, would save up to an additional 10,000 lives.

Dr. Dunn concurred with Platt's arguments that such legislation would be constitutional, that the belts protect other persons besides the user, and that they promote the "economic well-being" of society as a whole by reducing hospital costs, taxes, unemployment compensation, etc.

An award-winning automobile firm is located at 39 Haverhill St., in Shawsheen Village.

This is the Shawsheen Motor Mart, Inc., a Ford dealership founded by the late Ellsworth H. Lewis, president.

The company is holder of a Ford Motor Company Distinguished Service Award and other Ford honors.

There are about 250 new and used cars and trucks at Shawsheen Motor Mart. New cars are displayed in an indoor showroom and used cars outdoors. The firm occupies two floors of the former Shawsheen Mill garage and maintenance shop.

President is John D. Lewis, son of the founder, who has been with the firm for more than 10 years.

Other top aides are: Joseph A. Sapienza, general sales manager, Ralph Martinelli, service manager, Oliver Kirk, office manager, Nolan Peck, parts, and Rene Belanger, body shop foreman.

Japanese Crash Test Studied

A new type of anthropomorphic crash test dummy developed in Japan is being tested in the United States under an agreement between the U.S. Department of Transportation and the Japanese Ministry of International Trade and Industry.

Anthropomorphic dummies are widely used in automotive crash tests to measure the performance of vehicles at the point of impact, especially those equipped with experimental passive restraints such as the air bag cushion.

They are intended to represent an average adult American male in size and weight, simulate his physical motions, and reproduce the "impact response" of such a man in a crash situation.

(In a paper published in November, 1972, AAA stressed that consistent and meaningful test results could not be obtained with the use of anthropomorphic dummies, particularly in view of the state of the art of dummy technology. Shortly after, a circuit court of appeals ruled that installation of the air bag in new cars be postponed to allow further testing.)

A feature of the new Japanese dummy model is a patented mechanical design for certain body joints and body segments.

Sun Bug Another Bright Idea

Chalk up another bright idea from Volkswagen.

To "let a little sunshine into your life," Park-Hegarty is offering special limited edition 1974 Sun Bugs. The cars have glittering metallic gold paint and the accent in all three versions — Beetle and Super Beetle sun roof models and Convertibles — is on enjoying the out of doors inside your car, even if you don't make as many long trips as you used to.

In addition to the distinctive paint, Sun Bugs have a warm toned interior of brown leatherette and, in some versions, plush mocha fabric inserts in the seats. Standard equipment also includes a padded covered steering wheel, special sports wheels and a "sunburst" shift lever knob.

Convertible and Super Beetle Sun Bugs have a simulated rosewood dashboard inlay.

Park-Hegarty, located at 248 Haverhill St., Methuen, can also install an optional tunnel console to match the dashboard, a special Sun Bug emblem on the engine compartment lid and whimsical Sun Bug decals.

According to Richard Hegarty, treasurer Park-Hegarty Volkswagen, "People have had a lot of bad news lately about the energy crisis; but the Sun Bug emphasizes that with a VW you can have an economical, practical car and not give up the fun of driving. Owners can expect to get about 25 miles per gallon on regular gas."

Like all 1974 Volkswagens, Sun Bug models are equipped for VW's exclusive Computer Analysis and carry a comprehensive 12-month, 20,000-mile warranty as part of VW's Security Blanket owner protection program.

Liquid Dynamite In Your Car?

The Department of Transportation's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) warned motorists of the hazards involved in the transportation of gasoline in portable containers in the trunks of cars.

The Federal safety agency said it has received reports of motorists purchasing gasoline containers, presumably to store extra fuel in homes and cars during the energy crisis.

"I cannot stress strongly enough," said NHTSA Administrator Dr. James B. Gregory, "that such practices could have serious consequences. Even a minor rear-end collision with a vehicle in which extra gasoline is being carried in the trunk could set off an inferno resulting in injury or death. In addition, sparks from a short in a tail light or brake light can set off an explosion."

"Our best advice," Dr. Gregory said, "is to avoid carrying fuel in such a manner."

Especially hazardous are glass and plastic containers, or most fuel containers used by homeowners for power lawnmowers. Rusted metal containers should also be avoided.

Only in the most extreme emergencies should the transportation of extra fuel be considered, and in these circumstances the container should be rugged, securely closed, and protected against accidental spillage or damage. Even then such containers should be removed from the vehicle immediately upon completion of travel. Special care must also be taken to insure that vehicle occupants are not exposed to gasoline fumes, the agency said.

BONN - The Volkswagen is no longer king of the road in its native Germany.

Rising affluence and a taste for bigger, fancier cars finally overtook Volkswagen on its home soil in 1972 - as it has been doing abroad for several years - and knocked it into second place among best selling new cars.

The new sales champ has American money behind it. It is the Opel, a product of General Motors' West German subsidiary, Adam Opel A.G.

Here are all the Manta niceties . . . reclining bucket seat; rack and pinion steering, front and rear stabilizer bars, front disc brakes, road wheels, 1.9-liter engine and 4-spel fully synchronized transmission. Styling to delight the purist plus instrumentation to keep the driver abreast of what's happening on the other side of the firewall. Great!

Billions of gallons of gasoline would be saved if Americans get the habit of pooling their resources for their daily work trips.

DOT Promotes Carpools To Conserve Gasoline

The Department of Transportation, through the joint efforts of the Urban Mass Transportation Administration and the Federal Highway Administration, is preparing to promote, encourage and facilitate the use of carpools in urbanized areas in the country.

Secretary Brinegar noted that the Emergency Highway Energy Conservation Act makes Federal-aid highway funds available to finance carpool demonstration organizing programs in the urban systems.

The Federal share of such projects will be 90 per cent of the total cost, and no single project is to exceed $1 million. Regularly apportioned Federal-aid funds for the Urban System and Primary and Secondary urban extensions will be available to carry out the projects.

The projects may include:

- Systems for locating potential riders and informing them of carpool opportunities.

- Designating existing highway lanes as preferential carpool lanes or shared bus and carpool lanes.

- Providing related traffic control devices.

- Designating existing publicly-owned facilities for use as preferential parking for carpools.

A key tool to assist the organization of carpools by governmental units, institutions and employers is a computer matching program developed by the Federal Highway Administration. This program permits the rapid matchup of prospective carpools according to place of residence, place of work and working hours.

Interest in carpools has grown rapidly since President Nixon's energy statement last November. The Federal Highway Administration's program is now in operation in over 100 locations.

Secretary of Transportation Claude S. Brinegar said an estimated 20 billion gallons of gasoline could be saved annually if the Nation's drivers could be persuaded to increase commuter-auto occupancy from the present 1.6 person per car to 3.2 persons.

"Even a modest increase of from 1.6 to two persons per automobile would save five billion gallons of gasoline a year," he said.

"As a matter of national energy conservation policy, Americans must be persuaded to give up single passenger commuter travel wherever possible and use mass transit or carpools," Secretary Brinegar said.

Chains Won't Damage Radials

Contrary to the fear of some motorists that tire chains can cause undue wear on radial tires, industry tests show that this is not the case.

Citing extensive tests conducted during the past year under a wide range of actual highway conditions, William F.

Westerhold, Chairman of the Tire Chain Specifications Committee of the National Association of Chain Manufacturers, said that properly installed tire chains do not damage radial tires.

"The overwhelming evidence from these tests is that radial tires are not, in fact, as susceptible to chain damage as conventional tires," Westerhold said. "After 216 miles of comparative tests on bare pavement, one company reported, 'The radial tire was not harmed in any way. . . it appears to be more durable than bias-ply tires.' Another manufacturer concluded after nearly 4,000 miles of tests, 'Radials were less susceptible to chain damage than conventional tires.'"

Tests were run at a speed of 40 mph on bare pavements, a far more rigorous test of performance than any tire would be subjected to under normal winter driving conditions, according to Westerhold.

"It is possible, of course," Westerhold explained, "to damage any kind of tire by improper use of chains or any other traction device. Correct size, proper fit and moderate driving speeds are essential for long life and maximum performance of both tires and chains."

Westerhold added that tests by the National Safety Council have shown that reinforced tire chains provide far better traction both for stopping and pulling ability on snow and ice than any type of tire or other traction device.

"So regardless of the type of tires, motorists can continue to take advantage of the safety benefits of tire chains for severe snow and ice conditions," Westerhold concluded.

Art Therapy On Exhibit At Museum

Paintings and drawings by two life-long residents of psychiatric institutions are featured at the Museum of Fine Arts' School Gallery in an exhibition, Priscilla and Christopher: A Study in Art Therapy, May 14 through May 28.

This in-depth study demonstrates the value of art therapy and shows the creativity of each artist. Videotaped conversations with the artists reveal their personal attitudes.

For more than twenty-five years Christopher (58) had been institutionalized. After developing skills and understanding through art therapy he has recently been discharged from the state hospital and is now living in community life. Priscilla (30) is a creative artist showing exceptional control for a psychiatric patient.

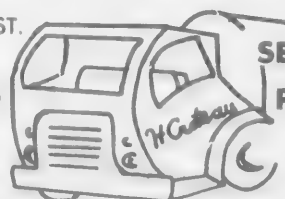

This exhibition is under the direction of Shaun McNiff, art therapy director of Danvers State Hospital.

Color pigments of insects come from the food they eat. The green of caterpillars is from chlorophyll. Yellow and red are from carotene and xanthophyll. Black and brown pigments come from amino acids in animal and vegetable proteins, the Massachusetts Audubon Society tells us.

Ensuring Un-Ding-A-Lings

Let us now praise un-ding-a-ling.

Your Bell System phone rings "ding-a-ling" for two seconds, followed by four silent seconds of un-ding-a-ling. This on-again, off-again process continues until you answer or your caller hangs up.

But, why the un-ding-a-ling? Why not a steady "ding-a-ling-a-ling-a-ling?" The difference is made by little devices that automatically interrupt the signal that tells phones to ring. They're called, naturally, "interrupters." Western Electric buys them from several manufacturers who produce them to meet WE's precise specifications and supplies them to Bell Telephone companies for use in central offices.

Interrupters operate much like music box mechanisms. A little metal contact arm with a tiny roller on its tip rides on the side of a revolving plastic cylinder with a raised ridge. Every time the contact is raised by the ridge, the result is a "ding-a-ling" in phones being called at that moment. Otherwise, all is silent. Interrupters come in various sizes and can handle from five to 50 "ding-a-lings." Other kinds of interrupters take the "biz" out of busy signals.

Though durable, interrupters can get dirty or worn and require repair or replacement. So, every year, out of the more than 3-million interrupters in the Bell Telephone network, about 100,000 are returned by Bell operating companies to Western Electric for servicing. Until recently, many man-hours were spent just trying to find out what was wrong with the used devices. And, lacking precise defect data, Western Electric would return 19,000 interrupters with seemingly major problems to their manufacturers for repairs. Now, because of a new interrupter test set, WE service centers can do almost all the repair work themselves.

Developed by Joe Colman, a senior engineer in WE's Purchased Products Engineering organization, the new test set performs up to 20 different checks simultaneously; in less than 50 seconds, a repairman gets a complete reading on defects. Using this information, the repairman can devote his time to repairing interrupters instead of merely trying to figure out what's wrong with them.

Ten WE service centers throughout the nation have been using interrupter test sets for more than a year. While manufacturers junked about 50 per cent of the interrupters returned to them, the accuracy of the test set printout has made possible a junking rate of only 13 per cent at the service centers. And reduced testing and repair costs added to the almost total elimination of the expense of shipping and repairing by manufacturers mean an annual savings to the Bell System of over $200,000.

So, next time your phone bells ring "ding-a-ling," be thankful for the little interrupter in your central office that gives you un-ding-a-ling, and not a steady "ding-a-ling-a-ling-a-ling."

Caterpillar A Menace To Oaks

A tiny caterpillar that burrows into buds before leaves unfold is a menace to oak trees. It is the oak leaf tier (pronounced tier), and attacks the pin, scarlet, red and black oaks according to Robert A. Bartlett, Jr.

It is often confused with the common cankerworm. Both defoliate trees. Fully grown caterpillars, both insects, spin down on silken threads that drop onto clothing, are blown onto autos, sides of buildings and walks. However, they are different in size, habit and color. The cankerworm, emerald green, inches or loops along; the leaf tier, a lighter, yellowish green wriggles or undulates. However, color is often varied, depending on the color and type of leaves they happen to be feeding on.

The oak leaf tier starts and finishes its springtime feeding earlier than the cankerworm. That's where difference in control of the two pests is highly important.

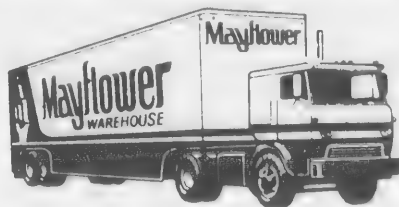

As many as ten newly hatched oak leaf tier caterpillars may invade a single oak bud. There they feed, perforating the embryonic leaf. As buds swell and leaves unfold, the leaf tier caterpillar emerges, promptly tying leaves together with a silken filament and feeds from within. Then satiated and fat, though only a half-inch long, the light yellow-green caterpillars descent on threads to cause untold annoyance.

Adequate control can be achieved through properly timed sprays, just before the leaves break open.

The Railway Labor Act's prohibition of employer interference or coercion in the choice of bargaining representatives was upheld by the Supreme Court in 1930.

After we put them together, we really tear them apart.

As hard as the people in our assembly plant try to build the perfect car, the people at the end of the line try to find something imperfect about them.

At this final step 15 special inspectors, armed with sophisticated testing machines, gauges and meters, can run a Saab sedan flat out. Standing still.

They can check the traction of our front-wheel drive, test the precision of our rack and pinion steering, and judge the effectiveness of our power-assisted four wheel disc brakes.

Here they can read the heartbeat of our fuel injected 2 liter engine. And they can check exhaust emissions, gas consumption, and engine efficiency before our car ever rolls out the door.

At Saab, we tear our cars apart after we build them, to make sure they'll stay together after we sell them.

Task Force To Unify Inspections

It's a 95 mile drive from Benton Harbor, Mich. to Chicago, Ill. Yet in that short distance a motorist will pass through jurisdictions with three different types of vehicle inspection laws.

In Michigan, the only inspection law is a random spot test of a few safety-related items. Indiana has compulsory vehicle inspections on an annual basis. Chicago has no safety inspection law but has compulsory emissions tests.

To eliminate such confusion and help alleviate three major problems involving motor vehicles, a new group has proposed a solution. The Motor and Equipment Manufacturers Association has formed a periodic motor vehicle inspection Task Force.

According to Task Force Chairman Wayne E. Rapp of Walker Manufacturing Co., "The Task Force's objective is to help formulate and establish at the state level, with federal approval, a uniform national periodic motor vehicle inspection program which includes safety, emissions and noise inspection standards and procedures."

Only 31 states have compulsory inspection of safety items like tires, brakes and lights. Along with Chicago, New Jersey has emissions inspection laws.

According to car experts, inspection laws now in effect have value beyond contributing to vehicle safety. Inspections also make motorists more conscious of the over-all condition of their cars, including engine components affecting lower emissions and better fuel economy.

Auto Repairs That Help

Despite this era of technical specialization, there are still many opportunities for constructive tinkering to the layman. One example is in the area of auto maintenance and repair.

And, given the fact that we are in a period of soaring service costs, this is good news indeed. Experts say even the simplest maintenance chores can save a car owner up to $100 a year.

Also if you know how to change a tire or replace a burned out fuse you won't always have to resort to emergency road repairs. During the winter months, this could save you from waiting the extra amount of time this service often requires because of a heavy overflow of calls from motorists.

Besides the tasks noted above, the most basic maintenance jobs requiring simple tools include giving your car a tune-up (changing or cleaning spark plugs and points, changing condenser and air filters, changing oil and oil filters, cleaning the battery terminals and flushing the cooling system).

Before beginning any such venture, however, make certain to study your owners manual thoroughly - something all motorists should do whether or not they plan to work on their cars. The manuals offer vital information on your particular model of car, such as the correct motor oil, tire pressure, tune-up specifications, and so forth.

To learn the ABCs of car repairs, you can attend courses in automotive maintenance offered by community colleges, local civic groups, and some AAA clubs. Or, if you're lucky enough to have a friend who's a qualified auto mechanic, ask him to show you the ropes.

Also, recognizing that American motorists are showing increasing interest in doing their own minor tinkering, most automakers are offering "do-it-yourself" booklets on various makes of autos free to new car buyers. This is especially true of the sub-compact models, since they're bought by people with economy in mind.

Those who already have a car can usually obtain these booklets from their dealers.

Nassar Ford Observes Anniversary

New car dealerships are a dangerous venture but Nassar Ford, 320 South Broadway, has weathered the stormy first years to celebrate its 37th birthday.

Nassar Ford, which was founded in 1937, is one of the area's largest Ford dealers.

The late Henry J. Nassar opened the firm many years ago on Common Street, moving some years later to the South Lawrence site.

There are about 300 new and used cars at the dealership including the new intermediate-priced Grand Torino, the luxury Ford LTD and the low-priced Pinto. A wide variety of trucks are also available.

New cars are displayed in a large showroom which is specially-lighted at night.

The firm is headed by Henry J. Nassar, Jr., and directing operation at the South Lawrence plant are: Rene Noel office manager, Paul Goudet, sales manager, Lee Sullivan, service manager, Ernest Desmettre, body shop manager, and Richard Parolisi, parts manager.

Safety Uppermost In New Inspection

The American Automobile Association reports that a new series of U.S. standards for vehicles in use outlines safety inspection procedures for brakes, steering, suspension, tires and wheels.

The standards, issued by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, went into effect in October, 1973, according to AAA, and are intended for implementation by the states through vehicle inspection programs. They were based on research findings that proper maintenance of these systems is a major factor in preventing traffic accidents.

NHTSA test data show that six per cent of all vehicle accidents studied were definitely the direct result of mechanical failures from "wear and degradation," and an additional 11 per cent "probably" were brought on by these conditions. Beyond this was the key finding that about 80 per cent of all these accidents involved the components covered by the new standards.

The ruling represent only minimum criteria acceptable by NHTSA for used vehicles and, as such, do not replace state inspection procedures that may be more stringent. All vehicles with a gross weight of 10,000 pounds or less, except for motorcycles and trailers, are included in the standards.

Below are details of the new criteria and inspection procedures:

Brakes: Integrity is the key word here, with inspection concentrating not only on the usual brake pad, lining, caliper and drum condition, but also on an equalization of braking pressures between left and right braking forces on the front and rear systems. This service brake test is designed to assure straight, unswerving stops within safe distance.

Steering suspension: Maintenance of predictable handling characteristics is sought in this phase of inspection, which emphasizes the elimination of any excessive steering wheel lash, free play, or binding that might affect the vehicle's handling and control. Wheel alignment also would be inspected, along with the condition of springs and shock absorbers.

Tires, wheels: Matching of the proper size and type of tires is paramount in this area, as is tire tread depth and casing condition. Wheel rims will undergo close scrutiny to assure that they are not deformed, or cracked. Conditions that could lead to unseating of the tires, or abrupt loss of pressure and control of the vehicle.

Hegarty Comments On Agency

Richard D. Hegarty, treasurer of Park-Hegarty

Volkswagen, Inc., 248 Haverhill St., Methuen, made the following statement about the VW agency:

"During these times of uncertainty, confusion and crisis it is comforting to know there is an auto dealer concerned with your transportation costs, your environment, and your energy resources.

"We have been serving you reliably with reliable transportation since 1959.

"In 1973 the compact import car represented more than 18 per cent of the American car market - quite a stride from 5 per cent in 1965.

"The philosophy of the entire staff of Park-Hegarty Volkswagen is to honestly merchandise with integrity, cars that are manufactured with high quality.

"We are understandably proud of our past accomplishments and will continue to strive to be proud of our future."

Key personnel working with Hegarty at the agency are Wallace Greenlay, sales manager, Bob Griffin, used car manager, David Shaheen, service manager, Bill McDonald, parts manager, and Jerry Roberts, body shop manager.

10 Easy Ways to Save Gasoline

The following list mentions a few of the things that every driver can do to save gasoline. One item not listed is most effective of all—eliminate unnecessary driving.

- Drive slowly.
- Drive at a steady speed.
- Get regular tune-ups.
- Have your front wheel alignment checked regularly.
- Keep your tires inflated to the pressure recommended in your owners manual.

- Avoid unnecessary idling.
- Plan ahead to avoid unnecessary stops and to allow gradual changes of speed.
- Form neighborhood carpool for all "routine" driving.
- Plan your day-to-day driving so that you can use the shortest routes and avoid "doubling-back".
- Warm up a cold engine by driving slowly.

Gene's Latest

The 1974 MGB has been announced by British Leyland Motors Inc. and is available at Gene's Garage, 100 Lowell St., Lawrence.

It is the latest version of the best selling in sports cars in the U.S. one of the few convertibles offered for sale here.

The '74 MGB is also known as a 'Grand Touring'. This model, the MGB, similar to the previous "hatchback" designs in rear window opens with easy access to a large storage area.

Both MGBs keep the popular engineering and features as last year's and are available in a new ten colors, five of which are new for 1974. They have stronger front and rear bumpers and new belt/ignition interlocks.

The new colors are: Barchin orange/gold; Tundra green; Aconite, a dark grey; and Mirage, a light grey and a lime/yellow.

MGBs are powered by a 1800 cc, four-cylinder, overhead valve engine developing 70 horsepower (SAE) at 5500 RPM and 94 pounds/ft torque (SAE) at 3000 RPM. Displacement is 110 cubic inches. The ruggedness of the basic MGB engine has repeatedly proven in Sports Car Club of America road races, which MGBs have won consecutive national championships.

The MGB's transmission is a close-ratio, four-speed synchromesh unit. A de option in these gasoline models is an electrical overdrive which reduces the number of engine revolutions on the fourth gear, providing an equivalent of a six-speed gearbox.

The MGB's racing heritage is reflected by one of its most attractive styling features: mag-style wheels. The standard equipment, long-life, higher fuel-radial ply tires. The MGB row oil cooler also originates from the race track.

Inside, the MGBs feature reclining bucket seats with adjustable head restraints, carpeting and complete instrumentation including tachometer, oil pressure, water temperature gauge, conveniently placed choke control over the hard starting problems can be associated with emission control systems.

The new Saab 900 Wagon is available at Chicago International Auto. It features a bending over, or without the backpanel. The giant rear window is the famous Saab impact absorber, and opens above ground; and opens the backseat folded down a load space is over six cubic feet large.

Gene's Garage Has Latest MGB Version

The 1974 MGB has been announced by British Leyland Motors Inc. and is now available at Gene's Garage, 265 Lowell St., Lawrence.

It is the latest version of one of the best selling imported sports cars in the U.S. and is one of the few convertibles still offered for sale here.

The '74 MGB is also available as a 'Grand Touring' coupe. This model, the MGB/GT, is similar to domestic "hatchback" designs in that its rear window opens wide for easy access to a large luggage storage area.

Both MGBs keep the same popular engineering and styling features as last year's models and are available in a range of ten colors, five of which are new for 1974. They have new and stronger front and rear bumpers and new safety belt/ignition interlocks.

The new colors are: Bracken, an orange/gold; Tundra, a deep green; Aconite, a dark purple; Mirage, a light grey and Citron, a lime/yellow.

MGBs are powered by four-cylinder, overhead valve engines developing 78.5 net horsepower (SAE) at 5,300 RPM and 94 pounds/feet of torque (SAE) at 3,000 RPM. Displacement is 110 cubic inches. The ruggedness of the basic MGB engine has been repeatedly proven in Sports Car Club of America road racing in which MGBs have won three consecutive national championships.

The MGB's transmission is a close-ratio, four-speed, full-synchromesh unit. A desirable option in these gasoline short days is an electrical overdrive which reduces the number of engine revolutions on third and fourth gears, providing the equivalent of a six-speed gear box.

The MGB's racing heritage is reflected by one of its many attractive styling features, racy mag-style wheels. These are standard equipment, as are long-life, higher fuel-mileage radial ply tires. The MGB's 13-row oil cooler also owes its origin to the race track.

Inside, the MGBs feature reclining bucket seats with adjustable head restraints, fitted carpeting and complete instrumentation including tachometer, oil pressure and water temperature gauges. A conveniently placed manual choke control overcomes the hard starting problems which can be associated with current emission control systems.

Interior colors are autumn leaf and black.

Whitewall radial ply tires, wire wheels, a removable steel hardtop and AM or AM/FM radio, are all optional. Suggested list price for the 1974 MGB convertible is $3,925 (ports of entry) and $4,325 for the MGB/GT.

Pre-Vacation Check Is Valuable

No one would think of mailing a valuable package without making sure it was wrapped carefully and completely protected. Yet if statistics are correct, most people aren't as careful when sending their most precious possession on a long journey.

If that invaluable cargo is a family and the carelessly prepared container is a car, then odds are almost even that there is at least one serious defect in that vehicle. The odds are based on reports from official vehicle inspection agencies showing approximately one out of every two cars cannot pass simple safety checks.

To help make certain you and your loved ones have a safe and breakdown-free trip, there's a list of items to check with your favorite service outlet before you depart.

BRAKES, TIRES AND WHEELS: Have brake linings inspected, check fluid levels and seals and adjust brakes. Check tires for excessive wear or visible signs of damage. If needed, rotate the tires. Also, check wheel alignment and balance and make sure your shock absorbers are not worn or damaged.

VISION: Check windshield wipers, headlights, turn signals, back-up and brake lights to make sure they are in good condition. Make sure washer reservoirs are filled and that all glass and mirrors are clean.

COOLING SYSTEM: Clean out and flush the cooling system and refill with new coolant, and rust inhibitor if needed. Check the thermostat, fan belt and water pump. Inspect all belts and hoses and condition of the radiator cap.

LUBRICATION: If needed, change the oil and oil filter. As part of an overall chassis lubrication, check transmission and differential fluids, front wheel bearings, locks and hinges.

TUNE-UP: If it has been more than 10,000 miles since your last tune-up, have one performed. As part of the tune-up check compression, coil output, charging rate of generator or alternator, install new spark plugs, inspect plug wires and boots, service and replace distributor components, service carburetor, check emission system and replace air cleaner. Also check battery and cables, cranking, starting and operating voltages and electrical wiring.

Check Your Car Policy

Are members of my carpool covered by my policy?

Only a detailed reading of a specific policy will give the exact answer but generally speaking, a carpool passenger is the same as any other passenger you may carry in your car.

An exception can arise when one member of the carpool performs all the driving, charging the rest of the pool members a flat fee that does not necessarily reflect an exact share of the cost. In such a case the driver may be judged to be operating a "public livery conveyance" and his insurance may not adequately cover his passengers.

Ordinarily, however, when carpool members rotate driving or otherwise operate on an actual cost basis, standard insurance is applicable.

In most cases a person who regularly drives to work pays a 15 to 40 per cent higher premium than for a car used solely for pleasure. If only one car in a pool is used, premiums might be reduced on those cars left at home.

Drivers under 25 comprise the largest age group among more than 122 million licensed drivers in the U.S.: 22.3 per cent. Ages 25 to 34 represent 21.7 per cent of the total, followed by the 35-44 group with 17.6 per cent; 45-54, 17 per cent; 55-64, 12.5 per cent and over 65, 9.3 per cent.

The new Saab 99 WagonBack Sedan, introduced today at the Chicago International Automobile Show, allows loading without bending over, or without having to lift heavy items over a high backpanel. The giant rear opening extends all the way down to the famous Saab impact absorbing bumpers, only 20.8 inches above ground; and opens up all the way to the roofline. With the backseat folded down and the parcel shelf removed, the total load space is over six feet long and about 53 cubic feet in volume. With everything in place, the trunk space is still all of 23 cubic feet large.

Cherokee Built For Luxury

Since the introduction of the new Jeep Cherokee for 1974, there have been some changes in the marketing of the Jeep Wagoneer. It has now become almost exclusively a luxury vehicle and there are fewer options available than before. For example, you can now get the Wagoneer only with automatic transmission and the Quadra-Trac fulltime 4-wheel-drive system. Gone are the manual transmission options of yesteryear. The standard engine is the 360-cu-in. V-8 with a 2-barrel carburetor. For those who want a bit more power, there is an optional 4-barrel version and a 401-cu-in. V-8.

The Wagoneer comes only as a 4-door station wagon but there are two trim level choices: Standard and the fancier Custom. The Custom offers some extra features such as carpeting with vinyl in the cargo area and lots of additional trim both inside and out. The basic list price for the Standard Wagoneer, FOB Toledo, Ohio, is $5366, while for the Custom it is $5604. Not cheap by any standard. We think it's a good value, though, so let's take a look and see why.

First of all, the Wagoneer is not terribly exotic. The suspension is much the same as that in other 4wds, with leaf springs and tube shocks both front and rear. For 1974, there is a new front axle which gives a shorter turning radius and there are disc brakes on the front.

The styling and design are functional and practical with little updating done in the past several years. The Jeep designers have managed to make some minor revisions that keep the Wagoneer from looking outdated, but it is not modern nor stylish. Inside, the Wagoneer comes with front and rear bench seats and the rear one folds forward for additional cargo space. The buyer can have optional bucket seats in the front with a center fold-down armrest for a little more than $100.

The list of standard equipment included in the base price is extensive, including such items as power steering, automatic transmission, Quadra-Trac high range, power front disc brakes, and so on. If you want to add things, you can order, at additional cost, such features as Quadra-Trac low range, power tailgate window, a choice of two trailer-towing packages, wood-grain accessory package, air conditioning, roof-mounted luggage rack, AM or AM-FM radios, tilt steering wheel and fuel tank skid plate. New for this year are styled aluminum wheels available from the factory.

Eliminating Deduction Harmful

Middle-income Americans would be taxed "oppressively and unfairly" if a proposal now developing before the U.S. Congress to end Federal income tax deductions for state and local gas taxes is passed.

This warning was sounded by David J. Christensen, Executive Vice President of the Automobile Club of Merrimack Valley, who said the proposal is included in an amendment to a minor Social Security bill.

"There are some 30 million persons who itemize their deductions when filing Federal income tax returns," said Christensen. If passed, he said the law would extract a reported $650 million from motorists.

In addition, he pointed out that since many state and local income tax returns are patterned after the Federal return, the proposal would hit the motorist three times, totaling about $1 billion a year in additional income taxes. He estimated that the average cost per car would be $50.

Car owners, said Christensen, are the most heavily taxed class of citizens in America, noting that they already pay more than $4 billion in Federal highway user taxes and more than $8 billion in state user taxes.

"Motorists are forced to pay ever increasing taxes without receiving anything beneficial in

DOT Will Require New Data On Tires

Buyers in the market for tires made after Sept. 1, 1974, will have three additional bits of technical information to guide them under a new consumer information Regulation proposed by the Department of Transportation.

The new regulation, drawn up by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), will require tire manufacturers and brand name owners to grade and label their products in the areas of treadwear, traction, and high-speed performance. This will affect highway passenger car tires for use on 13-inch, 14-inch, and 15-inch rims.

Grades for each area of performance will be molded into the tire sidewall, and also stated on a label attached to the tire's tread. The label will contain an explanation of the grades, and a statement that the tire meets Federal safety requirements.

Treadwear and traction grades will be assigned after measuring the performance of a tire against the performance of a control tire.

Thus, for treadwear the number "80" will represent a performance of at least 80 per cent of the level reached by the return," he said, and charged that the current move was a "backdoor way of legislating a tax increase."

The Automobile Club of Merrimack Valley is affiliated with the American Automobile Association, which fought similar legislation in 1963 and again in 1969.

Christensen said the motorist organization was even more opposed to the 1973 proposal because of widespread effects on persons who itemize Federal income tax return deductions.

control tire, and the number "200" will represent at least 200 per cent of this level. Five numbers - 60, 80, 120, 160 and 200 - will be used.

Tires graded for traction will show the numbers "90, 105 or 120," representing that percentage of control tire performance. This differs from the original proposal in that numbers, instead of asterisks, will be used.

High speed performance grades will be indicated by the letters "A, B, C," and "A" being the highest grade, and "C" indicating the minimum level of performance required by Federal safety standards.

The regulation specifies that tire grading information be furnished to prospective buyers of tires, as well as to prospective purchasers of new passenger cars.

Timing Important To Engine

Other conditions that waste gas include poorly set ignition timing. A poorly timed engine means loss of engine power so more gasoline is needed to provide power necessary to operate.

Other engine power robbers and fuel wasters include clogged PCV valve, plus other malfunctioning anti-pollution devices and poor compression due to bad valves or other engine defect.

To detect and correct any of these gas wasters, bring your car into your favorite service outlet for a tuneup.

Toronto Boasts Many Attractions For Tourists

You don't have to go to Europe to see a feudal castle. Canada's second largest city, Toronto, boasts Casa Loma... a turreted baronial castle with everything but a moat and drawbridge.

No longer inhabited, Casa Loma is open year-round to tourists. Thousands climb its stairs to see secret staircases, passages between the floors, and an underground road connecting the castle with stables and garages across the street. The castle takes up an entire city block and with the stables and other buildings covers seven acres in the center of a residential area. When it was built 62 years ago the castle was on Toronto's outskirts. Now it is surrounded by the city.

As a small boy the late Sir Henry Pellatt, financier and real estate promoter, read of feudal castles with secret staircases and he was determined to have one. The small boy grew up, became rich and built his dream castle. That was in 1911.

It took two years to complete the huge masonry and concrete edifice. For years, he and his wife lived there. Then taxes became so heavy Sir Henry could no longer afford it, nor could he find buyers for it. Eventually the city of Toronto inherited it for non-payment of taxes. Today the Kiwanis Club of West Toronto operates the castle for charitable affairs, paying maintenance and taxes.

There is no other castle like Casa Loma on this Continent. Sir Henry built it because "I wanted the finest house in Canada."

It has a secret staircase opening from the owner's bedroom. At the push of a button a panel in the bedroom wall opens leading to a private staircase to the ground floor.

Built to entertain royalty, the castle has 100 rooms with servants quarters for a staff of 50. The 16 master bedroom suites at one time had silver-plated bathroom fixtures, while in Lady Pellatt's bathroom the fixtures were gold. The bathrooms are all of imported marble, the bedroom fireplaces from old European castles.

Visitors to Casa Loma are first shown the Great Hall, the main living room, 80 feet square and 70 feet from floor to ceiling. The drawing room is 70 by 60 feet, the library 80 by 27 feet with room for a million books. The dining room could comfortably seat 100 guests.

"The kitchen," Sir Henry once said, "is large enough to feed a regiment."

You could roast a whole ox on the range. In the basement is a tiled swimming pool 40 by 50 feet. There are a number of billiard rooms, a bowling alley, a 200-foot rifle range. The laundry would do justice to a large hotel. An elevator runs to the top floor. The highest turret juts 300 feet above the street, about the height of a 20-story building.

To guard against fires, there is an eight-inch concrete floor beneath each hardwood floor. Below that are steel girders. The ceiling of the room below starts three and a half feet below the floor above. And to top it off, there are trap doors so a man can creep beneath every floor.

From the basement there is a tunnel wide enough for a car to drive through, which goes under the street for 600 feet and connects with the furnace room, the red-tiled stables, garages and greenhouses.

Sir Henry died in 1939, but his dream house remains and is visited daily by hundreds of visitors and Torontonians alike.

On June 9, 1899, James Jeffries won the heavyweight boxing championship by knocking out Bob Fitzsimmons in the 11th round of a bout in Coney Island.

A BLEND: The 1974 MGB/GT blends the performance of an open sports car with the long distance driving comfort of a closed automobile. The permanent steel hardtop is lined with fiberglass to reduce wind noise and the top's great rigidity gives the entire car a more insulated feeling than possible in a convertible. An optional overdrive makes the MGB/GT even quieter by reducing engine noise at cruising speeds as well as contributing to fuel economy. The rear window opens wide for access to the large luggage storage area.

Radials Save Gas

The American Automobile Association says that if your car didn't come equipped with radial tires, you may want to consider buying them as a fuel-saving measure.

When run at constant highway speeds, says AAA, radials can reduce gasoline consumption considerably.

The pointer is supported by two recent studies. A U.S. Treasury Department staff study has found that steel-belted radials can improve miles per gallon by 10 per cent, and recommended that they be included as standard equipment in new cars.

Also, in a test series by a major tire manufacturing company, radials and belted-bias tires were run on the same car and over the same route.

Comparative fuel consumption rates were measured at 30 miles per hour, 50 mph, and 70 mph. Results showed the radials - both steel and rayon belted - reduced gasoline consumption by seven to 10 per cent.

While fuel savings is greatest when cars run at constant speeds, the study showed there is still "significant" reduction when cars are driven under normal conditions involving stops, starts and changes in speed.

According to a tire industry expert, radial tires reduce gas consumption since their construction produces the closest thing to a perfectly round tire on the market. Such ties result in lower friction on the road, which produces a "free-wheeling" motion requiring less engine power.

AAA said that because of manufacturing procedures, it is impossible to construct a perfectly round tire.

The motoring organization pointed out that while suspension systems in some cars may not be designed for radial tires, they could be installed on virtually all models unless the owner's manual specifically warns against their use.

Appointed Supt. At Converse

Two executive changes have been announced at Converse Rubber Company Tyer Division, according to Leo F. Belliveau Vice President, manufacturing of the Andover Facility.

Thomas A. Nolan, formerly Manager of Corporate Quality Control, has been named Factory Superintendent at the Converse Tyer Division.

Nolan replaces Neil A. Perro of Berwick, Maine. Perro, who is a resident of Berwick, requested and was granted, transfer to Converse Rubber Company's new facilities. He will assume the duties of Chief Industrial Engineer at the new North Berwick, Maine plant.

Prior to joining Converse, manufacturer of the famous All Star basketball shoe and other athletic, recreational and leisure footwear, Nolan was associated with the B.F. Goodrich Footwear Company for 28 years. He first served as a production supervisor and later as a production superintendent.

Perro joined Converse in 1971 as an industrial engineer. Prior to that, he was associated with American Cyanamid Corp., Sanford, Maine, and Clarostat Manufacturing Co., Dover, N.H.

A native of Granville, Vt., Perro attended high school in Richford, Vt., and was graduated from Colebrook Academy, Colebrook, N.H. He has attended University of New Hampshire extension classes and the University of Maine. During his career, he also attended many professional seminars and has completed a number of special Industrial Management courses.

Perro is active in the American Institute of Industrial Engineers and has served as Director of Program Chairman of that organization.

Converse Rubber Company is a subsidiary of Eltra Corporation, a major manufacturer of electrical, sports and communication products. Eltra had 1973 sales in excess of $650 million.

Immersion In Spanish

Total immersion in Spanish for two nights and three days had 65 Andover, North Andover, Lawrence and Phillips Academy students eating breakfast, debating, cooking, playing volleyball and brushing their teeth all in Spanish at Rolling Ridge Methodist Conference Center last week.

Each school had 18-20 students participating, says Mrs. Dorothy Gocłowski, Andover High School Spanish and Russian teacher; Andover High School, East and West Junior High participated.

It's a mini-total immersion language experience, says Mrs. Gocłowski, who says the usual total immersion sessions are longer than three days. "But even a short experience of total immersion in a language can speed up students' fluency significantly."

Several native Spanish speaking students participated from each school, which kept the conversational ball rolling smoothly. Even on Tuesday afternoon, in the first few hours of the Spanish Retreat the volleyball game was fast and vociferous, and all in Spanish. That evening there were discussions led by the native Spanish speaking students, plus games, debating, and literary discussions.

On the program were a lecture and discussion on the Spanish author Garcia Lorca, a slide talk and discussion led by PA Spanish speaking seniors who spent a term working in Mexico as fieldwork for the PA "Man and Society" course, and another slide talk by other PA seniors who spent a year in Barcelona, Spain, in the School Year Abroad program. There was a Spanish ballet, a discussion led by a Cuban escapee, games and a treasure hunt, with no English allowed, and preparation of a Spanish meal.

Rooming was pre-arranged so that the Lawrence, Andover and North Andover students roomed next to each other, instead of with their own school friends. "To make this work, the kids had to get to know each other right away, and start speaking Spanish from the start," commented Mrs. Gocłowski, an experienced group leader who has taken several Andover High School groups from Andover to Spain, also to Russia, Hungary and Poland.

The Spanish Retreat at Rolling Ridge was a cooperative effort between the Spanish Departments of Andover High, North Andover High, Lawrence High and Phillips Academy, one of the first fruits of plans for cooperation and exchange between the public school systems and the coeducational independent boarding school.

Election

Andover's first opportunity for single representation in the state legislature will apparently result in a hotly contested race in November.

The announcement by John Cronin to seek the new representative seat as an independent will afford Andover voters the opportunity to give a clear choice on election day.

The announcement by Cronin was a surprise only in the fact that he would campaign as an independent. He had been an unannounced candidate up until Tuesday of this week, and all indications were that he would challenge former Selectman Roger W. Collins for the Republican nomination in the primary in September.

It is expected now that Andover voters will have three candidates from which to select Beacon Hill representation in November, an as yet unnamed Democrat, Cronin as an independent and a Republican.

Collins, who did not seek re-election to the board of selectmen this year in order to campaign for the legislature, is expected to have some Republican opposition in the primary from Donal Coleman, a college student.

The Cronin decision to be an independent candidate, probably is due to a desire to avoid a primary confrontation with Collins, who was a worker for Congressman Paul W. Cronin in his various political campaigns.

John Cronin, however, will probably have a difficult time shedding a Republican tag, no matter how hard he attempts to emphasize his individual tendencies and independent status.

In a Republican stronghold, which Andover has been considered, the results could be most interesting.

The County

County government continues to be a heavy burden on the taxpayers of Massachusetts.

The Legislative Committee on Counties currently has under consideration the budgetary requests of 12 Massachusetts counties totalling $117 million.

The figure is distressing as one observes and contemplates the innumerable duplication of services present in the administration of county government.

The Essex County budget, which will require expenditures of local taxpayers here, has been submitted for consideration at $14,158,341.

Among the "features" of this budget is a planning department. Local communities have planning boards and departments. Local communities also have participation in a regional planning commission, (for local interests, the Central Merrimack Valley Regional Planning Commission, is the agency).

But during the past year, the county commissioners saw fit to create another planning agency, thus, in the long run, duplicating the efforts of local and regional groups.

Such areas as the courts and penal institutions, which rightfully belong under state jurisdiction, fall under the control of the county government.

Patronage dispensing runs high at the county level, all at considerable cost to the taxpayers.

The legislature has been continually reluctant to move in on the county form of government, resorting rather to studies from time to time, which generally wind up gathering dust in some corner of the state house.

The county seat and its governing body was once a valid and workable form of administration in the early days of the country, but has long outlived its usefulness in modern times.

The duplication of services, the patronage, and the general lack of necessity of county administration is in dire need of attention.

At a time when economy in government should be uppermost in everyone's mind, there is a figure of $14 million which stands out rather prominently as an area where considerable savings could be realized.

Topics

As much as we would like to see some improvement in traffic flow in Elm Square, we would dislike having such remedy at the expense of lost parking spaces in downtown Andover.

The TOPICS program, a state plan to aid communities in improving traffic flow and safety, is recommending the loss of close to 40 parking spaces within the downtown area as part of the overall improvements envisioned for the stretch of Route 28 from Shawsheen Square to the Academy.

Admittedly there are problems in Elm Square and at several intersections along the main artery through Andover.

But parking in the downtown area is something which is in need of improvement, as well as the safety considerations.

As we view the plan, and merchants and town officials work to make modifications in the recommendations, we can see the problems which result from outside consultants examining a local situation.

What works well in theory, is not always what works best in actual practice.

Local considerations notwithstanding, consultants often survey then make recommendations, "according to the book."

We can see where a little common sense invoked in the consideration of the TOPICS program for Andover, by state officials could result in considerable improvement in the safety of the downtown area, without sacrificing the already limited parking facilities available to shoppers and visitors to the Central Andover area.

Off The Top

Isn't it amazing how the Red Sox seem to be able to annually burn up the league in Florida, then fall flat as soon as the season opens.

Among the rather attractive spring settings in Andover is the front of the West Junior High school.

Flowering trees are in full brilliance this week and set off the appearance of the school quite well.

That's not TOPICS engaged in tying up traffic on Main street in Andover these days.

Workmen are continuing the work of installing new utility lines and improving the surface of the road after the excavations made earlier.

Only a few days remain before the close of the compulsory motor vehicle inspection at mid-night, May 15.

Before that time, all motor vehicles and trailers which were registered and operated in Massachusetts at any time between April 1 and May 15 must be submitted for inspection to an official station.

On May 16, any motor vehicle or trailer that is being operated without a white Spring inspection sticker or with a rejection sticker will be stopped by enforcement officers.

The owner or operator or both can be prosecuted for operating with inadequate or defective equipment as well as for operating without a valid inspection sticker.

The design competition for a Massachusetts Bicentennial medal proved to be a popular success. More than 1,000 original design entries were submitted by 675 Massachusetts residents. The design competition closed May 1.

The medal contest was open to residents of the Commonwealth and full-time students attending Massachusetts schools. Both amateur and professional designers were invited to compete for the $1,000 first prize. A second prize of $500 and a third prize of the same amount will be awarded.

A panel of five judges will select the winners. The panel consists of: James Ford Clapp, architect; William Dooley, art critic; Jonathan Leo Fairbanks, art administrator; Mico Kaufman, sculptor, and William Schelmerdine, Jr., attorney.

The winning design will be rendered in bas-relief by a prominent Massachusetts sculptor. The medal will be struck by the Bicentennial Commission's official medallist, Medallist Art Company of Danbury, Conn.

"In Massachusetts, it's illegal to use studded tires after Tuesday, April 30," said Thomas M. O'Neil, Manager of the Emergency Road Service Department of the Automobile Club of Merrimack Valley. "You can't put them back on until November 2." The penalty is a fine up to $50.

"It's also wise to take off un-studded snow tires now. You burn more gas with snow tread tires on your car.

"Winter tires wear out faster than regular tread tires on hard dry pavement. They don't offer you as good braking or cornering performance," O'Neil said.

The AAA service manager advised marking studded tires L and R for left and right when they are removed. "If you don't replace them on the same wheels, you'll lose much of the effectiveness of the studs because the tires will be rotating in the opposite direction."

Down the Years with The Townsman

75 Years Ago - May, 1899

Work on establishment of the grade and lines was begun by the town on a new street between Chestnut and Summer Streets this week. The street will be known as Avon Street for the present.

The Boston and Maine Railroad tracks are being raised in grade from five inches to 12 inches between Lowell Junction and Lawrence. Inspectors of the railroad were in town Monday on a special train.

Several large limbs in town are being torn down or simply supported by stumps and the park commissioners should be aware of the condition. Also, many trees are being damaged by careless drivers cutting corners too close and skimming the trees.

Supt. Merritt of the B. and M. Railroad came to town Saturday to talk to representatives of A.V.I.S. in relation to the beautification and improvement of "The Boulders."

The work of establishing a new telephone exchange is progressing well and it is now determined that it will require two people to man the station. A lady will be hired for the day work and a boy for night duty.

50 Years Ago - May, 1924

The Andover Dental clinic opened this week in the public schools. Children in grades one through three will have teeth cleaned and examined in the chemistry room of Punchard high school in the program initiated by the public health committee of the American Red Cross.

Jeremiah Cronin was appointed captain of Hose Co. 2 by Fire Chief Charles Emerson at a meeting at the Ballardvale station Tuesday night.

The school committee met this week and re-elected all school custodians awarded the contract for coal to B.L. McDonald Co. and approved bills totalling $13,378.

Gordon B. Brown, organist and director of the choir at Christ Episcopal church has opened a studio for voice training and interpretation.

The selectmen have appointed the Pumps Pond Bathing Beach committee to include John F. O'Connell, chairman, Roy Hardy, secretary and Philip P. Cole, treasurer.

25 Years Ago - May, 1949

The selectmen have denied the request of Tree Warden George Abbot for a salary increase. They say his request for a $70 per week salary should be submitted to next year's budget.

The board of health reorganized this week, with Dr. Percy J. Look, chairman; Dr. William V. Emmons, secretary and Mrs. Lotta Johnson, agent.

The school committee approved the forming of a group of doctors headed by Dr. Harry V. Byrne to recommend a health program for the school and to include St. Augustine's as part of the program.

Joseph Wenni and David E. Pingree have been recommended for Cornell Scholarships by Granville Benedict at Phillips Academy.

The firm of Lewis and Scott has completed the repaving of Burnham Road where the sewer line was installed to the satisfaction of the board of public works.

10 Years Ago - May, 1964

The major sewer project is proceeding ahead of schedule and possibly the major portion of the work will be completed before winter weather sets in.

The selectmen received a warning from the state Department of Health that the town must move toward eliminating pollution of the Merrimack.

Richards Exhibit At Gallery

Photographs by Eugene Richards will be on exhibit at the Addison Gallery of American Art, Andover, from May 3 until May 26.

Richards studied photography with Minor White at M.I.T. after graduating from Northeastern University in 1967. He left M.I.T. in 1968 and shortly thereafter went to Arkansas as a Vista volunteer. After nearly two years in that organization, he and some of his associates left to found Respect, Inc., a private social-action program providing paralegal services, publishing a community newspaper, and distributing food and clothing in West Memphis (across the Mississippi River from Memphis, Tennessee).

As he became increasingly involved in the community, Richards began to use his camera to record what he observed. Following a lecture tour in which members of Respect, Inc. were seeking funds for their organization, Richards was contacted by Howard Webber, Director of the M.I.T. Press, who encouraged him to expand his work and put it in book form. Few Comforts or Sur-

Cahill To Seek Re-Election

Chairman Edward H. Cahill of the Essex County Commissioners announced his candidacy for re-election at a brunch Sunday at the Knights of Columbus hall in Lynn.

Commissioner Cahill, who makes his home at 62 Cherry St. in Lynn, first took office as an Essex County Commissioner in 1959. He is serving his third term as chairman.

Prior to that he served eight terms in the Lynn City Council and is a former Council President.

During World War II his public service was interrupted to serve from 1942-45 in the U.S. Marine Corps during World War II.

He is married and the father of three children.

Chairman Cahill during his service in county government has attempted to keep the cost of county government down despite increased demands for services, the expanding crime rate, and the inflationary spiral.

He is a member of the William P. Connery, Jr., Post Six, American Legion; Valladolid Council, Knights of Columbus; active in Democratic party circles; a member of the Lynn Local of the American Newspaper Guild; the National Association of County Officials and the Mass. County Commissioners and Sheriffs Association.

During his adult life Commissioner Cahill has served as sports editor of the Lynn Daily Evening Item.

Children's Day Is Observed

If you were driving by St. Robert's Country Day School last Friday and saw two huge fish flying from the church rooftop, it was to honor the boys, as part of their "day." On Friday, May 3, the children in the Nursery and Kindergarten groups at St. Robert's Country Day School celebrated "Children's Day," a Japanese holiday usually celebrated on May 5.

Prior to World War II, Boys' Day and Girls' Day used to be celebrated separately in Japan, but since then, the two days have been combined into the one celebration. Mrs. Atsuko Fukada, mother of one of the Nursery group children served as advisor to the school Director, Mrs. Harold Keegan, in planning the day's festivities.

The boys made kites in the shape of carp, and origami warrior's hats, and held a kite flying contest out of doors.

The girls brought their "most special" dolls to school where they were served a ceremonial tea, complete with Japanese crackers and cookies they had decorated themselves. The girls, too, did some origami work, and made dolls. Each child was measured, (this, too, was an old Japanese tradition for this day) and a special certificate was sent home with each child giving his height, and explaining some of the other traditions of the celebration of both Boys' and Girls' Days.

Mrs. Fukada brought in dolls, and an elaborate display of Japanese "armaments" as well as Japanese tea, which she served to the children. Her daughter, Yuko, dressed in a kimono, assisted her.

The day was planned as part of the current school unit on children in other lands" which will conclude on June 6 when the children hold their Graduation, the theme of which is a Hawaiian Luau.

Other events planned for this month at the school include a coffee for newly registered parents on Tuesday at 8 p.m., the annual Parent's Meeting and elections on May 30, at 8 p.m., and a field trip to the Public Gardens and Swan Boat Rides on May 9. An Ecology Day is planned for May 16 when the children will clean up around the school grounds and plant some flowers, and a May Procession and May Pole Dance are planned on May 23, weather permitting.

LaRochelle Studying In London

Robert LaRochelle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. LaRochelle of Andover and a junior majoring in Social Relations at Windham College in Putney, Vt., is studying Social Relations in London this semester. Prof. Barton Parks is leading a group of 22 students and studying with them topics such as "Education, Self, and Society," "The Disreputables," and "Urban Man: The City and Social Life," as well as independent projects arranged with individual students.

Each fall the Windham Abroad program sends 150 students to various locations abroad for combined study and experience there. Spring programs like Prof. Parks' and a concurrent one in Tours, France, are frequently planned as well. The Windham Abroad study trips are open to all students at the college, who may attend as many as they wish.

Andover Events Schedule

Paleoecology

By Polly Bradley

These days "ecology" seems to get tacked to everything, but a new one for me is "paleoecology". . . ancient ecology.

Paleoecology is the ecology of fossils. The latest issue of Scientific American defines it as "the study of the relations between ancient organisms and their environment."

During the last ten years, the concept of ecology has come into its own as people gradually came to realize that the world is one biological unit, one living system, one "Spaceship Earth."

While this ecological world view was gaining wide acceptance, sometimes with noisy heralding in the media, a quieter revolution in world view was taking place in geology, making most of the ideas that most of us learned in college geology obsolete.

According to the new theory (now generally accepted by scientists after a decade of raging tempests in geological teapots), there are currents deep within the earth which slowly carry great sections or "plates" of earth crust along with them, creating new oceans, consuming old oceans, and rearranging the continents across the face of the globe. Where continents collide, the floating crust of the earth piles up to form mountains. Where continents separate, new oceans are born.

In the article in the current Scientific American, "Plate Tectonics and the History of Life in the Oceans," by James W. Valentine and Eldridge M. Moores, the new geological world view and the new ecological world view are joined to form an amazing revised version of the evolution of life.

At the beginning of the Triassic period, some 225 million years ago, a single super-continent, Pangaea, was formed when even more ancient smaller continents collided. Before Pangaea, a great diversity of life forms existed in the world's shallow waters, which form most of the fossil record. However, with the coming together of the supercontinents, the world environment became much more uniform.

There was less variety of habitats, leading to a widespread extinction of species. The actual fossil record shows that about 225 million years ago, there were fewer species in the shallow waters than at any time since life began on earth.

Knights Netmen Take First Defeat

By: Howard Epstein

Last Thursday, the Knights Netmen took their first defeat of the season in a very close match, losing by one match to the Hamilton-Wenham Generals. The score was Hamilton Wenham three, North Andover two.

Coaches Berman and O'Shea felt that if our regular third singles player Mike Dobrowolski played we would have won. However Brian Steinberg playing in his first match with the team held his own in a losing cause.

The scoring was as follows: In the first singles match (the young Texan) Jim McCaleb defeated Rich Stevens 6-2, 6-2. In the second singles match Howard Epstein defeated Bob Woodbury 6-2, 6-2. In the third singles match Brian Steinberg lost to Lindley Houghton 6-1, 6-2. In doubles action the first doubles team of Jay Farrow and Brian Gallagher lost to Dave Bannette and Tom Schwaegerle 6-1, 6-3. In the second doubles match Tom Rockwood and Jim Sullivan lost the big one to Barry Maddix and Lane Mann 6-1, 5-7, 6-4. This match determined the winner. Rockwood and Sullivan got off to a bad start and finally caught fire but a little too late. They were losing 5-1 in the second set and came back to win six straight and win the set 7-5. But they just couldn't hold off their opponents losing by a score of 6-4 in the last set.

The Knights trying to get back on the winning track last Tuesday at Triton were rained out. The next match is scheduled for Thursday at North Reading. The girls were again rained out at Ipswich last Friday. They seem to have hard luck trying to play Ipswich. However they did get the season rolling Wednesday at Triton.

North Andover recently received the go ahead on building the 10 tennis courts at the high school they asked for at the town meeting, the cost is $90,000. Construction should begin soon and should be done by the late summer. So a varsity tennis team for next year looks very good and there will most likely be one. The Knights should be very strong next year, because they will have courts to practice on where as now they have already proven themselves and have not practiced together at all. The

Native Produce Beginning To Arrive

The appearance of fresh, local produce at farm stands and market produce counters marks the beginning of the Bay State growing season, reports the Massachusetts Department of Agriculture (MDA). The supply of native asparagus is heavier this week, as it arrives daily from the Pioneer Valley farms. You'll find it mainly at nearby roadside farm stands, of excellent quality, and reasonably priced.

Native rhubarb, pink, juicy and tender, is improving in quality as the crop comes in, with prices easing.

Scallions and spinach, too, are now being harvested locally, offering a wider choice of fresh-picked vegetables than we've had for many months.

Bay State farm stands are offering a wide variety of vegetable plants and seedlings for the home garden, and planting time for many of them is already here.

During the first two weeks in May, says the MDA, you can set out lettuce, cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli and onions. Many bedding plants are also safe to plant now, too: pansies, petunias, alyssum, snapdragons, verbena, carnations. They're all available at most farm stands and nurseries.

The supply of plants and cut flowers for Mother's Day - Sunday, May 12 - is plentiful, though it's best to buy as early as possible for the widest choice. You'll find azaleas, hydrangeas, chrysanthemums, daffodils, cineraria and others among the plants, and cut roses, carnations, mums and daisies in profusion.

Some of the more tender vegetables should not be planted outdoors until Memorial Day, when all danger of frost has passed.
(What's "normal" about New England weather?) Tomatoes, peppers, eggplants and the squashes should be held indoors until about May 25, the MDA recommends.

Keep those plants in their flats in a cool place, out of wind and sun, as in garage or basement - but they should have some light.
Keep them damp, not soaked. This simple process is known as "hardening off" - conditioning for the rigors of outdoor growing - after their early upbringing under glass, in regulated temperatures. You'll have hardier plants that way, says the MDA.

Cronin To Address GOP Women

The Women's Republican Club of Essex County will hold its Annual Meeting at the Andover Country Club, Andover, on Friday, May 17, with Congressman Paul Cronin as guest speaker.

A social hour will begin at 6 p.m. to be followed by dinner at 7. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Evert Tengberg, 18 Felton Street, Peabody, no later than May 10.

Following Congressman Cronin's Address, the Club will hold its annual election and installation of new officers.

All interested women who would like transportation or further information about the club are invited to call Mrs. Mary Sutton Ramsdell of Sutton Hill Rd., North Andover.

Annual Meeting For Gardeners

The Village Garden Club of Andover will hold its annual business meeting May 9, at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. H. Thomas Dill, Salem St., Andover.

Members will return their order blanks for the Village Garden Club's plant sale which will be held on Tuesday, May 21 at Trull's Mill Hill Flower Center, 411 River Road, North Tewksbury. Anyone interested in obtaining an order blank may contact Mrs. David Milot, or Mrs. John Kilgo.

Hostesses for the business meeting will be Mrs. John Bangert, Mrs. H. Thomas Dill and Mrs. Richard Dietzel. Mrs. Frank Eulie will provide the centerpiece for the refreshments table.

D.A.R. Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Priscilla Abbot Chapter of the DAR will meet Tuesday, May 14, at 7 p.m. at the home of Mrs. James Smethurst, 59 Lucerne Drive, Andover.

Annual reports will be read and installation of new officers for the next two years will be conducted.

Mrs. Will Brown, Regent will preside and dessert and coffee will be served.

Rummage Sale

B'nai B'rith Women Peace Chapter 1408 will hold a rummage sale on Thursday, May 9 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 167 Essex St., Lawrence, second floor.

A new selection of clothing and household items will be available for sale.

May Fair To Benefit Fellowships

The Andover-Georgetown Branch of A.A.U.W. is having a May Fair on Saturday, May 11, 1974 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Unitarian-Universalist Church, 244 Lowell Street (Route 133), Andover. A wide variety of items will be available for sale, with proceeds to benefit the A.A.U.W. Fellowship Fund.

Organized by Fellowship Co-Chairmen, Mrs. Carol Hinkel and Mrs. Patti Howes, the sale will be organized by tables headed by members of their committee as follows: Used books (hard cover and paperback) - Mrs. Ruthann Budrewicz and Mrs. Barbara Perlman; Seedlings, Plants and Cuttings - Mrs. Anne Osborn and Mrs. Suzanne Robinson; Unused Gifts (Treasures) - Mrs. Arlene Carlisle and Mrs. Shirley Woodward; Children's Toys and Clothes - Mrs. Retta Horton and Mrs. Virginia Reck; Attic Treasures and Antiques - Mrs. Jane MacDonald and Mrs. Wanda Corcoran; Handicraft (made by AAUW members including decoupage, wall plaques, Sesame Street puppets, waste baskets, macrame plant holders, art work, and knitted goods) - Mrs. Lorraine Cocolis and Mrs. Aileen Morrissey; Food - Suzanne McGrail.

The A.A.U.W. Fellowship Fund, which will benefit from the proceeds of the sale, is funded by donations from A.A.U.W. branches across the country and provides fellowship grants to American and foreign women pursuing doctoral and post-doctoral work in their fields of endeavor. For example, two women who had received A.A.U.W. fellowships and were studying in the Boston area spoke at a branch meeting earlier in the year. One was a medical doctor from Finland who was pursuing a doctorate in public health at Harvard with the eventual goal of working for an international health organization. The other, a resident of Stoneham, was a doctoral candidate at M.I.T. who was researching job and monetary advancements for women in banking, civil service, education and insurance. As is evidenced, the Fellowships benefit women who can provide local and international services in various fields: business, sciences, arts, public welfare and many others.

Four Seasons Club In Visit To Nature Trail

Members of the Four Seasons Garden Club of Andover gathered at the Lodge in the Recreation Park this morning at 9:15 a.m. for their May meeting with President Priscilla Bartle, presiding.

Mrs. Edward Thompson was welcomed as a new member, and plans were finalized for the club's eighth annual flower sale to be held on Thursday, May 16 at Pinewood Gardens from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tickets are redeemable toward any garden item, and can be purchased by contacting Mrs. Theda Leonard, 4 North Tanglewood Way or any club member.

At the end of the business meeting, Mrs. Robert Eastman, Conservation Chairman, led members on the one and one half miles Nature Trail on Fosters Island Reservation which the club is maintaining through proceeds of its plant sale. The trail is being visibly marked, and the chairman reports that plants, trees, and shrubs will be identified with markers so that all Andover families will be able to enjoy their Conservation Lands. A guide is being written by her committee which will be distributed to all elementary Andover schools and all Boy Scout troops in the hope that the trail will be used as an outdoor classroom.

Refreshments were served by co-hostesses Mrs. William McKissack and Mrs. Wilfred Schwarz.

Castle Alumnae Reunion

The Officers of the Castle Junior College Alumnae Association are planning the annual Alumnae Banquet to be held on Thursday, May 16, at the Elks Home in Haverhill. Registration will begin at 7:30 p.m. and a family-style roast beef dinner will be served at 8 p.m. Guests at the Banquet are the members of the graduating class at the College. This year 47 seniors will be honored and welcomed into the Association by the alumnae members attending.

Also, this Banquet marks the five-year reunion for the Class of 1969 and special tables will be arranged for those attending.

The Alumnae Officers planning the events are: president, Miss Susan G. St. Pierre '69, from North Andover; first vice-president, Mrs. Judith Krukonis '66, from Derry; second vice-president, Mrs. Kathleen Smith '69, from Haverhill; secretary, Miss Margaret E. To Feature Guy Lombardo At Anniversary

It will seem like January in June if you attend the 50th Anniversary of the Essex County Health Association with Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians on June 5, at the Danversport Yacht Club, Danvers.

The Anniversary Ball is a departure from the Association's usual annual meeting format and is the first special event conducted by the Association. Mrs. Sylvia C. Mansfield, R.N., President, of Lynn said recently, "As a nurse, I realize the need to encourage young people to enter medical, nursing and respiratory health professions. Proceeds from the ball will be used for the Pettingill Scholarship Fund which grants tuition awards to young people entering health professions."

Tickets are $15.00 per person and can be obtained by writing or calling the Essex County Health Association, affiliate American Lung Association, 239 Newburyport Turnpike, P.O. Box 288, Topsfield, Mass., 01983, or if more convenient contact one of the following people in your community: Mrs. U.S. Berger, 33 Lincoln Circle, Andover, and Joseph F. Sweeney, 102 Dawes St., Lawrence.

Pieters In Cast Of Waa-Mu Show

Stephen Pieters, son of Mr. and Mrs. R.S. Pieters of 25 Phillips St., Andover, is a member of the principal cast, sextet and choral group in Northwestern University's 43rd annual Waa-Mu Show. This year's original musical revue, "Keep In Touch," will be presented for seven performances, May 6 through May 11, in Cahn Auditorium on the Evanston, Illinois campus, with a matinee on Saturday.

Waa-Mu incorporates the efforts of some 300 students in the cast, orchestra and staff to produce what the Associated Press has called "the best college show in America." The dialogue sketches and musical numbers for this year's production were written and composed by nineteen students and three alumni.

Hood Completes Aero School

Paul A. Hood, Jr., 233 Holt Road, Andover, has completed the Aeronautical Maintenance Technology Course at East Coast Aero Technical School, Hanscom Field, Lexington, where he prepared for the Federal Aviation Agency examination to become a licensed Airframe and Powerplant Technician. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Hood, Sr.

Upon graduation Mr. Hood was awarded an East Coast Aero Technical School Honor Certificate for an outstanding record of scholarship and performance.

Board Meeting

The annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the Visiting Nurse Association of Andover Inc. will be held on Monday, May 13, at 8 p.m. in the Red Cross rooms at 2 Pynchard Avenue. Officers for the coming year will be elected and annual reports will be presented.

Sweepers
Are Hoop
Titlists

The surging Sweepers captured the championship of the Over 33 Division of the Andover Men's Basketball League by handing Dana's a stunning defeat 52-24. The Sweepers reached the championship bracket by winning a two point overtime playoff game with the Strobes, after the second half of the season ended in a three-way tie. Dana's had previously won the first half.

The Sweepers - Dana's contest was never in question after the Sweepers surged to an 8-0 lead early in the first stanza. Scoring was balanced with Milt Beaudine high at 14 (7 for 7) followed by Fred Polgreen with 10 and Dick Stevens with 8. Fred Serley and Tom Comparatto controlled the boards while Ed Kelley directed the offense. Maury LaPointe played his usual steady game at both ends, scoring 6 and pulling down 7 rebounds. Les Mencis and Dennis Hughes both had 8 points for the losers who were hampered by the loss of their MVP center Les Gilbert.

The 3-way tie for the second half between the Pick-ups, Strobes and Sweepers was indicative of the season long enthusiasm and desire to win. The League was highlighted by four overtime games and a number of one-point and last second victories. The No-Names winless for the entire season won their final game setting the stage for even closer match-ups in 1974-1975. When next year's call to arms is sounded in October, it's hoped there will be more new faces on the Over-33 scene.

Airport Grant

LEGAL NOTICES

To the Commissioners of Essex County

Gentlemen:

The Manager of the Town of Andover in the County of Essex, Massachusetts, thereto duly authorized, respectfully represents that the highway known as River Road from 1200 feet north of Chandler Road to North Street is unsuited to the present requirements of travel, and that common convenience and necessity require that the said highway be widened and straightened, and laid out, altered, or relocated, and that specific repairs be made thereon.

WHEREFORE, he prays that after due notice and a hearing the County Commissioners may lay out, alter or relocate the said highway, order specific repairs thereon, and discontinue any portion thereof which by reason of their action may no longer be required, all as in their judgment may be necessary.

s/ J. Maynard Austin

LOCATED IN
LAWRENCE, METHUEN,
ANDOVER & NORTH ANDOVER
YOU ARE REQUIRED TO MAKE APPLICATION
FOR A PERMIT TO DISCHARGE INDUSTRIAL WASTEWATER

The Rules and Regulations of the Greater Lawrence Sanitary District require that all individuals, firms, companies, associations, corporations, groups, trusts, etc., who desire to discharge industrial wastewaters into District facilities directly (or indirectly through a municipal system) shall make application for such discharges to the District.

In forming its opinion as to the limitations on acceptability of any wastes, the District will give consideration to such factors as the quantities of the wastes in relation to flows and velocities in the sewers, materials of construction of the sewers, degree of treatability of wastes in District facilities and other pertinent factors.

Copies of the District's Rules and Regulations (including User Charges and Industrial Cost Recovery) and Application Forms for Discharging Wastes to the Collection and Treatment Facilities of the Greater Lawrence Sanitary District are available by writing to the District, 598 Essex Street, Lawrence, Massachusetts.

In addition, the District will hold a Public Meeting on Wednesday, June 5, 1974 at 7:30 PM at the Lawrence Public Library on Lawrence Street to answer questions or to provide further information.

Personnel Hearings In Abeyance

The question of a hearing for Assistant Superintendent Edward Regan, into the reasons he was dismissed from that job by the School Committee, continued in abeyance this week, while William Becker's case, concerning his demotion from English Department Head, has been held up by legal timetables.

A private meeting of Regan and the School Committee was cancelled last Wednesday after Town Counsel Alfred Daniels ruled that the cause given by the School Committee did not constitute defamation of character, therefore were not confined to executive session.

After Chairman Frank Griggs presented the committee's reasons to Regan privately last Thursday, Attorney Carmine DiAdamo, acting for Regan, requested in writing an open hearing or "other suitable forum."

The committee returned that request after discussion in executive session Tuesday night, for further definition.

Daniels also had ruled that the time specifications in the grievance procedure being taken by Becker in his effort to be reinstated as department head, should be adhered to. Becker had originally asked that the process be accelerated.

Becker's tentative meeting with the committee in executive session Tuesday, was therefore also cancelled. The earliest the Becker matter could now come before the committee would be at the May 21 meeting. He meanwhile has met, according to grievance procedure, with High School Principal Philip Wormwood, the Andover Education Association, the Massachusetts Teachers Association and Superintendent Kenneth R. Seifert.

Regan meanwhile has also been in contact with the Massachusetts Association of Superintendents of Schools, and that group has indicated its willingness to get involved in the matter.

VFW Post Poppy Drive Set

The next meeting of the Andover V.F.W. Post 2128 will be held on May 12 at 7:30 at the American Legion Hall.

At this meeting we will have the installation of the 1974-1975 Officers.

Replacing of new flags in local cemeteries will be held on May 12.

Since a lot of the markers have been stolen, we will do our best to replace them all. If we should over look any Veterans Graves, please contact the Veterans Office in Andover and we will be honored to replace any flags we have over looked.

On May 17-18 the local veterans group will have their annual Buddy Poppy sales, around Andover. Buy a poppy and honor the deceased veteran by helping the living.

To Replace Flags On Vets Graves

The Patriotic Holiday Committee, with the assistance of the local Veterans organizations, will replace the American Flags on the graves of all veterans, who are interred in Andover cemeteries prior to Memorial Day.

Members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 2128, and the American Legion, Post 8, will meet in the Legion Hall on Sunday, May 12 at 1 p.m. to carry out this activity.

Rain date for placing flags will be Sunday, May 19 at 1 p.m.

We will need the assistance of all able bodied members of both Posts, as we have more than 1100 graves to honor with a new flag.

Students

Y., and its alumni group, the Cornell Society of engineers, initiated the award program to recognize outstanding juniors at selected secondary schools.

This year the program was expanded to include Andover High school.

The award to Miss Seifel, is the first such honor for an Andover High school student.

Miss Seifel who will continue her education at Massachusetts Institute of Technology after June graduation, received the honor for demonstrated community responsibility.

She is a member of the ecology group at the high school and was a speaker at town meeting this year, addressing the voters on the nuclear power plant ban issue. She was the honored with a resolution by the voters for her effective presentation.

Breakfast Set For Tewksbury

May Breakfast time is Saturday, May 11 from 6 to 9:30 a.m. in the parish hall of the First Baptist Church of Tewksbury on Route 133.

The menu includes orange juice, grapefruit juice, hot and cold cereal, eggs in various styles, bacon, sausage, giddle cakes, maple syrup, tea, coffee, milk; blueberry and corn muffins.

There will be home cooked food on sale, a plant table, white elephants and knick-knacks.

Committee members include Kenneth Hashaw, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott, Mrs. William Turner, Mrs. John Cheney, Mrs. Harold Clark, Mrs. James McLeish, Mrs. June Callahan, Mr. and Mrs. Nat Trull, Ray Cobleigh and Mrs. Jane Wood.

Registration

There will be a meeting for parents of prospective and present cubs of Pack 102 at Bancroft School Cafeteria on Wednesday, May 15 at 7:30 p.m. Registrations will be taken at this time, and the dens formed for September. Only those boys who will be Webelos next year should come to the meeting with their fathers.

SUNDIAL™

by Armstrong

It shines without waxing! It's cushioned for comfort!

Everything you'd want in a new floor—beauty, durability, comfort, economy—Sundial has it all. Two high-styled patterns, many colors. A special Mirabond™ wear surface that keeps its shine, without waxing, far longer than an ordinary vinyl floor. A foam inner cushion for more comfort underfoot. Plus . . . Sundial is the lowest cost floor featuring Armstrong's special Mirabond no-wax wear surface. See Sundial today.
